DEATH OF MR. FARLEY

Well-known Boston Merchant and Resident of Auburndale Passes Away Suddenly

Mr. Arthur C. Farley, one of the best known citizens of Auburndale, was found unconscious in his bed early Friday morning and died without recovering consciousness. Mr. Farley was apparently in his usual health when he retired on Thursday evening and death was caused by apoplexy.

Mr. Farley was born in Boston on March 13, 1851, the eldest son of the late Noah W. Farley and Permelia Hammond Thayer. Both his parents were New Hampshire people and through his father he was a descendant of George Farley, who settled in Boston in 1640. He was educated in Chauncey Hall School and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and began his business life in 1870 as a clerk in the wholesale dry goods house of Farley, Amsden & Co., later Farley, Harvey & Co., of which firm he became a partner in 1880.

Mr. Farley married in Boston in 1882 Miss Helen Judd, daughter of the late Colonel Charles Hastings Judd of Honolulu, Hawaii. He is survived by Mrs. Farley and four children; Mrs. William T. Massey of Winchester, Va.; Mrs. Stephen E. Wright of Auburndale; Lieutenant Charles Judd Farley, U. S. A., who arrived Saturday after three years' service in France, and Mr. Arthur Francis Farley, formerly a lieutenant of artillery in the United States Army and now a student at Yale. Two brothers, Mr. William T. Farley of Weston and Mr. Fred W. Farley of Waltham, and one sister, Mrs. Henry Whitmore of West Newton, are also living.

Although for many years actively engaged in large business affairs, Mr. Farley found time for many activities for the good of the communities in which he worked and lived. Long a prominent member and director of the former Boston Merchants' Association, he took an active part in the formation of the present Boston Chamber of Commerce and has served on many of its important committees. He had been a director of the Home Market Club and a member of other business organizations. In church matters, Mr. Farley had been identified with the Congregational denomination, first in Park Street Church, of which his father was treasurer for a score of years, and later with the Auburndale church, of which he had been for many years one of the leading and most useful members. His interest extended to the larger affairs of the community, having been a director of the American Congregational Association and secretary of the Board of Ministerial Aid. The welfare of his home town concerned him deeply and he had served as president of the Auburndale Improvement Association.

He was a member of the Brae-Burn Country Club, the Boston City, Twentieth Century, Economic and Appalachian Mountain clubs and of Joseph Warren Lodge of Masons.

There was a large attendance of neighbors and friends at the funeral services which were held Sunday afternoon at his late residence on Central street, and the casket was almost buried in flowers. Rev. Dr. Edward P. Drew, pastor of the Auburndale church officiated, and a former pastor, Rev. Dr. William C. Gordon, delivered the eulogy. The pall bearers were the two sons and two sons-in-law, Lieut. Charles J. Farley (Continued on Page 10)

JULY 4th

Nonantum and Waban Only Villages to Formally Celebrate the Day

Nonantum and Waban are the only districts in the city where Independence Day will be celebrated in any organized fashion, even Newton Centre, which for years has had a band concert and fireworks, on the Fourth, passing it up for this year.

At Nonantum the new playground and athletic field just completed by the Saxony Worsted Company on California street will be dedicated, and elaborate preparations have been completed by a committee under the direction of P. Joseph Murphy for the celebration. The events include a band concert, a flag-raising and public speaking. Mayor Childs of Newton will make the address at the flag-raising which takes place at 9.45 in the morning. Following this there is to be a baseball game between the Saxony team and a nine representing the Silesia Mills of West Chelmsford, Mass.

At Waban, the Improvement Society has planned a series of children's sports on the playground at nine o'clock with 40 yard dash, 100 yard dash, sack race, barrel race, rope climb, potato race and spider race for the boys and a 40 yard dash, 100 yard dash, sack race, barrel race, peanut race and potato race for the girls. There will be base ball games for young and old on the playground at 2.30 P. M. and an open dance in the evening at the Neighborhood Club-house.

NORUMBEGA PARK

Charles Klein's masterpiece "The Lion and the Mouse" will be presented by the Liberty Players at Norumbega Park beginning tomorrow. Two performances of this striking play will be given daily. It was this play in which Edmund Breese made the hit of his career, and its revival should be most welcome to the theatre-goers of Greater Boston. The noted crystal gazer, Madame Palfreyman, is proving a most popular attraction at the park, and is being consulted by young and old. Edna Francis Simmons' Ladies Orchestra gives two concerts daily. Other popular features of this recognized favorite playground of Greater Boston include, the new restaurant with its unexcelled dancing floor, launches and canoes on the Charles River, and the big zoo, with its multitude of wild animals. Many organizations are using the big athletic fields and picnic grounds for outings.

FISHER BUSINESS COLLEGE

The annual announcement of Fisher Business Colleges indicates that the fall term will open September 2.

During the past year a large number of Newton young people have attended the Waltham and Cambridge Schools, and upon graduating have been placed with leading business houses. The Cambridge School, having outgrown its former quarters, now occupies the entire floor of the building on Central Square, which has been especially fitted up for its purposes.

All four schools show a marked increase in attendance over previous years. At the present time a handsome prospectus is being issued to the public upon request, giving full particulars of the courses offered.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Manager
Carl Hunt of the Plymouth Theatre announces another treat for Boston theatre-goers partial to musical comedy beginning tomorrow night when his youthful, enthusiastic and capable players will produce "Floradora," with an augmented cast. Manager Hunt has spared neither expense, time nor effort to make this interesting revival worthy of the high standard which his company has set for itself. Not only have the principals been increased in number, but so has the chorus.

Prominent among the additions to the company is George Sydenham, who will play the role he originated in the original London production, that of Cyrus W. Gilfillan, proprietor of both the island and the perfume of Floradora. Ernest H. Band, who sang with Trentini in the original "Firefly" has also been added to the cast.

PLAYGROUNDS SUPERVISED

Formal Opening of Playground Work for the Summer Season

The active supervision of play on the Newton playgrounds began Tuesday and the supervisors were first addressed by Mayor Childs and Superintendent Ernst Hermann at City Hall before beginning their duties.

Mayor Childs discussed the place that the subject of organized play has taken in the modern municipal government.

"The time has gone by," declared the Mayor, "when the matter of supervised play and playgrounds was considered a fad. It has now taken one of the most important positions on the list of civic activities. It is, in my opinion, just as necessary, just as indispensable as the Police Department, or the Board of Assessors, or the Fire Department or any other."

The Mayor outlined the possibilities that the playground supervision offers for the building up of a better citizenship, through a co-operation of the factors of intelligence, public spiritedness, patriotism and honesty. Many of the young men will be peculiarly well fitted for the work before them on the playgrounds because of the fact that they have been but recently in the Government service, and this has given them a new angle of vision on the question of group activities.

Mr. Hermann, in his talk to the newly-appointed directors, urged that every effort be made to maintain the high standard that the playgrounds of Newton have attained before the eyes of the educational authorities in the United States. "These grounds," said Mr. Hermann, "are certainly among the most beautiful spots in the country. We must keep them up to the highest plane of operation, and the success of the program depends entirely upon the supervisors of each particular ground."

He then outlined the activities that

GARDEN PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Webster were the hosts at a very pleasant Garden Party given at their home at 339 Newtonville avenue, recently. Mrs. Webster has been most active in Canteen work during this war and her guests included her assistants at the United Canteen at Trinity Court and the Blue and Khaki Club on the Esplanade. About fifty Army and Navy men were present who have been frequent visitors at the Canteens.

A buffet supper was served in the spacious dining room which was decorated with the National colors and mountain laurel.

Mrs. Webster was presented by her Canteen workers with a beautiful writing case. The evening was pleasantly spent in games and dancing.

Those who assisted Mrs. Webster in receiving and serving were Mrs. C. L. Cotton, Mrs. George Ellis, Mrs. C. L. Hatch and Mrs. Emma D. Hiltz.

SANG REQUIEM OF THE HUN

How the Cannon Roared During the Glorious Offensive of the Forest of Argonne.

It was night in France and the great Argonne offensive was on. The section chiefs grew hoarse shouting their commands, the gunner corporals manipulated their sights with speed and accuracy and the gun crews eagerly put forth superhuman effort in serving their pieces which were being loaded and fired as quickly as possible. The terrific detonations shook the forest which actually seemed like a live, throbbing, burning monster, who vomited fire and flame, and roared inhumanly with its terrible voice. Every man in the four gun crews was soon rendered temporarily deaf. Lit up by the ghastly flashes from the fire of their own guns, they looked like veritable devils, their faces gleaming with fiendish joy as they leaped into the pit to shift the gun trail or sprang to the wheels, at which they tugged and pulled with might and main. It was exceedingly tiresome work for the earnest lads. The rate of fire was so rapid that it was necessary for them to pause occasionally in order to permit the intensely heated pieces to cool.

Presented a thrilling scene to see, in the dim light of the early dawn, a stalwart lad, bareheaded, eyes heavy and red from the burning powder gas, his square jaws grimly set and shirt open at the throat, his arms bare to the elbows and black with grease, standing out there, swabbing out the steaming gun with the slender rammer. A lanyard broke from too constant use on one of the guns. Not hesitating a moment to repair it, the "No. 1" man simply used his fingers to draw back the "striker." A lad fell limp and exhausted into the gun pit, but was quickly pulled out of danger, where he lay quite still and was undisturbed by the terrible barrage. Another man quickly took his comrade's place.

So the terrible fight continued. The great iron orchestra played its terrible symphony madly until ten o'clock in the morning, when the tired musicians began one by one, to lay aside their weary instruments, for the score they had been playing had sent the Fritzies scampering over the hills and far away.

Where Foch is Second.

Madame la Marechale Foch is commander in chief in her own home. She is said to be a French lady of quiet and calm determination where the order and regularity of her household are concerned. She dislikes being late for luncheon, and she dislikes the marshal being late for luncheon. Fortunately, the marshal dislikes himself. On one occasion, when after the signing of the armistice Foch was engaged in prolonged conversation with allied representatives and the hour for luncheon had gone by, a message came into the conference room to say that Madame la Marechale could wait no longer for lunch. It may have been impatience on the part of Madame la Marechale, or perhaps Foch expected that message, according to a possible little prearranged stratagem between monsieur and madame. Needless to say that, in times of great pressure, madame makes no demur when the rules of her household are just simply ignored.

Was Great Jap Soldier.

Gen. Baron Fukushima, although one of Japan's most notable military men, received but scant notice in the American press on the occasion of his death in Tokyo. He began life as a drummer boy, and in 1892-93 distinguished himself by a trip he made on horseback from Berlin to Vladivostok, through Russia, Siberia, Mongolia and Manchuria, a distance of 9,000 miles. From 1887 up to the time he started on this famous trip he had been military attaché in Berlin. General Fukushima was in command of the Japanese contingent in the war with China until the fall of Tientsin, and was general staff officer during the Boxer troubles. He was staff officer at headquarters of the Manchurian army in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-05. At different times he represented his country in China, India, Egypt, Turkey, Persia, Caucasus, Arabia, Turkestan, Burma, Siam and Annam.

Hanging Between the Two.

Last summer the Hulman brothers, at Terre Haute, gave the Rose Polytechnic the grounds for the new school. The year before that they gave the land for Calvary cemetery. One of their townsmen recently met Herman, the younger brother, on his way to his farm, which is between the two pieces of ground above mentioned. "Well, Herman, he remarked smilingly, 'I see you've solved that often disputed question of whether we should consider our cemeteries or seminaries of the more important.'"

Mr. Hulman looked at him, and then his eyes twinkled. "Not exactly solved it," he drawled. "You know where my farm is. Well, you see, I'm still just hanging between the two."—Indianapolis News.

Submarine in Warfare.

In spite of the fact that the British have some steam-driven 2,700-ton submarines, capable of a surface speed of from 20 to 25 knots, the submarine, as a weapon of war, is too slow and too blind when it is submerged to be considered a serious weapon of naval warfare. When it can see, electrically, to a distance of ten to fifteen miles, while it is submerged so deeply as to be invisible to the air scout, and when it can steam 20 knots submerged it will dominate the naval situation.—Scientific American.

SOLDIER BURIED

One of the largest funerals ever held in Newton took place Monday morning, when Walter J. McCann, adopted son of Mr. John Cahill, who died at Brighton last week Thursday, was buried from his home, 1522 Washington street, West Newton. He was gassed while in service during the war and had been suffering ever since. He belonged to the 26th Division.

The funeral was the first in Newton for a returned soldier since the signing of the armistice, and his friends turned out in great numbers. The cortege started from the Newton Catholic Club at 8 o'clock. At 9 high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Bernard's Church by Rev. William J. Farrell, formerly chaplain of the 26th and spiritual adviser for the Catholic Club.

The escort comprised a detail of the State Guard, under the direction of Sgt. James O'Donnell of Newton, and men from the Y-D organizations, friends of the departed, with Sgt. William P. O'Hearn in charge. The pall bearers were William J. McBride, Edward Sheridan, both of the 26th Division, Timothy C. Hickey, Joseph Edwards, James V. Lyons and John Connolly.

The cortege proceeded to Calvary Cemetery, Waltham, where prayers were offered at the grave by Rev. John P. Keleher, pastor of St. Bernard's, Rev. Francis Cronin and Rev. John Dowd.

The Experienced Mechanic Knows

The mechanic who is intimately acquainted with motors will tell you, "The oil that gives best service and protection is the oil that holds its body at cylinder heat." That's why he recommends Polarine.

Adjust the oil feed correctly, and Polarine will keep your motor running with the quiet purr that indicates minimum wear on piston rings, bearings and shafts—quiet power that gives motoring much of its charm.

Buy Polarine where you buy power-full SoCony Motor Gasoline—wherever you see the red, white and blue SoCony Sign.

KNOTT-CROCKER

Miss Margaret Crocker, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sturgis Crocker of Newton and Barnstable, was married at the Unitarian Church in Barnstable, Saturday evening, June the twenty-eighth, to Mr. Sydney Tucker Knott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ernest Knott of Jamaica Plain and Barnstable. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The Reverend Ernest A. Chase, the pastor of the church, officiated. The bride's only attendants were her sister, Miss Eleanor Crocker as maid of honor and her niece, little Miss Anna May Crocker as flower girl. Mr. Knott's best man was Mr. John Pickering Putnam of Boston, a Harvard 1916 classmate of the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Samuel Sturgis Crocker, Jr., Mr. John Alden Crocker, brothers of the bride, Mr. Edward Lewis Harris of Barnstable, Mr. Roger Virgil Pond of Brookline, Mr. John Woodredge of West Newton, and Mr. Kenneth Bacon Bond of Boston, the last three being classmates of the groom.

The bride's gown was of white satin trimmed with rare old embroidery brought from India to her father's mother for her wedding gown. The tulle veil with coronet of this embroidery was fastened with orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of lily of the valley and bride's roses. Miss Crocker wore orchid taffeta and tulle with belt of robin's egg blue and carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas. Little Miss Anna May wore white with pink and blue ribbon.

Mrs. Crocker wore a gown of ashes of roses satin. Mrs. Knott was in grey satin.

The bride's going away gown was blue crepe de chine. Her hat was of blue straw trimmed with wheat and bachelor buttons.

A small reception was held at the bride's home which was beautifully decorated, with flowers from many Barnstable gardens, by her friends who also decorated the church.

Among those at the wedding reception were relatives and friends of the families from New York, Boston, and the Cape.

After a motor trip the bride and groom will spend their summer on the Cape, going to Boston in the fall where Mr. Knott will resume his studies at Harvard Law School.

BOY BURGLAR

Samuel Woods, who is little more than a schoolboy and whose home is on Atlantic street in Winthrop was captured Monday morning. The arrest followed a break in the store of C. Dangelagno at 2990 Commonwealth avenue.

Woods' career as a youthful burglar began long ago, according to information secured from several different police courts in and about Boston. He is declared to have admitted to three breaks in the Auburndale District here as a climax to his career, and it was the last one of these that got him into the clutches of the police. The boy will be sent to the Shirley School.

LINGERED TOO LONG

Great Men Who Outlived Their Hours of Fame.

Henry Watterson Tells of Statesmen, Nationally Famous, Who Became Pitiable Spectacles Amid Scenes They Once Adorned.

Between the idiot and the man of sense, the lunatic and the man of genius, there are degrees—streaks—of idiosyncrasy and lunacy. How many expectant politicians elected to congress have entered Washington all hope, eager to dare and do, and have come away broken in health, fame and fortune, happy to get back home—sometimes unable to get away, to linger on in obscurity and poverty to a squalid and wretched old age.

I have lived long enough to have known many such: Senators who have filled the galleries when they rose to speak; house heroes living while they could on borrowed money, then hanging about the hotels begging for money to buy a drink.

There was a famous statesman and orator who came to this at last, of whom the typical and characteristic story was told that the holder of a claim against the government, who dared not approach so great a man with so much as the intimation of a bribe, undertook by argument to interest him in the merit of the case.

The great man listened and replied: "I have noticed you scattering your means around here pretty freely, but you haven't said 'turkey' to me."

Surprised, but glad and unabashed, the claimant said, "I was coming to that," produced a thousand-dollar bank roll and entered into an understanding what was to be done next day, when the bill was due on the calendar.

The great man took the money, repaired to a gambling house, had an extraordinary run of luck, won heavily, and playing all night, forgetting about his engagement, went to bed at daylight, not appearing in the house at all. The bill was called, and there being nobody to represent it, under the rule it went over and to the bottom of the calendar, killing it for that session of course.

The day after the claimant met his recalcitrant attorney on the avenue face and face and took him to task for his delinquency.

"Ah, yes," said the great man, "you are the little rascal who tried to bribe me the other day. Here is your dirty money. Take it and be off with you. I was just seeing how far you would go."

The comment made by those who best knew the great man was that if instead of winning in the gambling house he had lost he would have been up betimes at his place in the house and doing his utmost to pass the claimant's bill and get another fee.—Henry Watterson in Saturday Evening Post.

Watterson's Early Recollection.

I was fond of going up to the capitol and of playing amateur page in the house, of which my father had been a member and where he had many friends, though I was never officially a page, writes Henry Watterson in the Saturday Evening Post.

There was a particular little old bald-headed gentleman who was good to me and would put his arm about me and stroll with me across the rotunda to the library of congress and get me books to read. I was not so young as not to know that he was an ex-president of the United States, and to realize the meaning of it. He had been the oldest member of the house when my father was the youngest. He was John Quincy Adams.

By chance I was on the floor of the house when he fell in his place, and followed the excited and tearful throng when they bore him into the speaker's room, kneeling by the side of the sofa with an improvised fan and crying as if my heart would break.

Gum Chewing Popular in Far East.

One can escape chewing gum by departing this life, but he cannot do so by merely taking leave of America. It has become virtually universal, due to the universality of mortal waywardness because of the energy and ingenuity of American advertisers. England resisted perpetual motion of the jaws for a long time, then fell; parts of Europe still hold out bravely, but it is in the eastern hemisphere that chewing gum's greatest and most surprising ravages are to be found. The Chinese rickshaw coolie now has his gum; the Japanese geisha chews in rhythm with her dancing feet; and there are similar manifestations of the growing popularity of gum in Burma, Siam, India, the Dutch East Indies, the Philippines and Australia. Happily this token of civilization is not worse, but infinitely better, than the Orient's unwholesome betel nut, which it is to some degree supplanting.—Bellman.

Clever Hussy.

"The man who can meet emergencies, who can rise to the occasion, is the man who will succeed," declares Charles M. Schwab, "like the chap who was one evening suddenly confronted by a discontented wife. She said:

"Before we were married you used to bring me flowers every day, but now you never think of getting me even a bunch of violets."

"But, my dear," he protested, without a second's hesitation, "the pretty flower girls don't attract me now as much as they used to."

"And, of course, she told him that on second thought she really didn't care for flowers."

Demonstration Home Garden

The farmers and gardeners who are located within the European corn borer quarantine district have become alarmed over the news that their corn crop will be destroyed if found infested with the European corn borer. The latest official ruling of the State Department of Agriculture, however, states that corn found infested with the European corn borer will not be destroyed until fall when a grand clean-up of the infested area will be made. The quarantine will be rigidly enforced and everything done to keep the borer within the infested district. It is up to every one of us to help in the control of this dangerous pest which threatens the corn crop of the country.

Don't forget that it isn't too late to plant another crop of shell or string beans, beets or carrots. Try some cos lettuce, Kohl-Rabi, or Chinese cabbage if you have not grown any before. They are all easy to raise and it's ten to one you will never be without them again. Late cabbage and cauliflower plants may be set out, too. You will harvest them before frost if you keep them growing.

Your cucumbers, squashes, and melons need a thorough spraying of Bordeaux and arsenate of lead every week to 10 days. Don't neglect them.

The plant lice or aphids have ruined many pea crops already. Inspect your potatoes and tomatoes every day or two for lice. In spraying for plant lice you have got to hit the culprit himself. Spraying the foliage won't do. When spraying with "Black Leaf 40" for plant lice use the mixture stronger than what the manufacturer recommends and be sure to use soap with the mixture. Use 1-2 teaspoonfuls of "Black Leaf 40" and 1 cubic inch of common laundry soap to one gallon of water.

A good strong stream from the garden hose will prove a satisfactory means of control for the plant lice. It washes them from the plants and a great many are killed.

Many gardeners have experienced a trouble of the tomato plant in which several of the leaves have a tendency to curl upward from each edge. This is a physiological condition of the plant which is still under investigation at the agricultural experiment stations. The exact cause as yet has not been ascertained. The plant does not seem to suffer any from this abnormal condition and generally outgrows it.

Do the weeds in your garden make it an eyesore in the neighborhood? The vegetables might just as well be getting the plant food and moisture that the weeds are consuming. Whatever you do, don't let the weeds go to seed. Take a file and put a good sharp edge on the hoe. It will make the job ten times easier, and while you are doing the weeding you might just as well thin the different vegetables to their proper distances. Letting root crops grow too thick is a common fault among many home gardeners.

If you plan to let your tomato vines run over the ground spread lawn clippings or straw around the plants. This will help keep the fruit clean and also form a mulch which prevents evaporation of moisture from the soil.

In the summer time the hoe and the cultivators are the gardeners' best friends.

EDITORIAL

The condensation of popular novels which is such a feature of the Boston Post this summer, is attracting a great deal of deserved attention. While to many these condensed novels merely afford a skeleton glance at books, about which one is familiar, but which have not yet been read, to many others it will lead to a reading of the whole novel and revive one's interest in literary matters.

The following is the best definition of Bolshevism we have yet seen—
"A social order which sets out to procure rewards for one class of society at the expense of other classes of society through means of oppression, dictation, autocracy, force and every other available expedient, without respect to law or any other democratic principle." In other words, "the end justifies the means."

Mr. Arthur C. Farley, whose death it was our sad duty to announce this week, was one of the men of whom the community was justly proud. For many years, one of our leading citizens, his influence, either in the church, the community or in business was always exercised for righteousness, for the public betterment and for the highest type of business integrity.

The past week has held two eventful days, Saturday when the treaty of peace was signed at Paris and Tuesday when nation wide prohibition took effect. It is a time when the Doxology is singing in all our hearts.

With freedom from war, freedom from rum and freedom from sex inequality, this is indeed a Glorious Independence Day.

Judge Bacon is doing good work in laying heavy penalties on violators of automobile laws. Keep it up, Judge.

Output of the workroom for the month of June, 1919.

These were distributed as follows:
105 "sun-bath overalls" to Children's Island Sanatorium, Marblehead. (A most cordial and appreciative letter has been received in acknowledgment.) 40 operating room supplies for the Newton Hospital.
38 nightgowns and night shirts to the District Nurses' Association.
20 garments to the Newton Circle to be used at "The Lodge," Newton Upper Falls.
The rest were sent to the Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, American Committee for Devastated France, and Special Aid Headquarters for service hospitals, or for Serbia and Poland.

The workroom will be open on Thursdays only until further notice.

CANTEEN WORKERS WANTED

Mrs. Wendell very much hopes that from your Branch you will be able to send one or two volunteers to help in the Army and Navy Canteen on the Boston Common this summer. The following quotation from one of several letters she has received will show the necessity of workers.

"While the number of men patronizing the Canteen is steadily increasing and the arrival of four battleships at this Port for repairs will further increase patronage, the number of volunteer workers has become alarmingly small.

With 1100 and 1200 men on Sundays and an average of 833 men a day for the week, it would be a great misfortune if we had to fail through lack of workers, and I feel certain that it is just a question of how we can reach them.

If you can interest any workers, ask them to see either Mrs. Coe at the Canteen or Miss Manning.

Sincerely yours,
LETITIA MASON,
Executive Secretary.

BALM FOR THE DISHWASHER

According to Writer, Happy is the Man Allowed to Help in Cleansing
the Table Utensils.

We have never held with those who think dishwashing a dreary and sordid task, according to Collier's. Give us plenty of hot water, plenty of clean cloths and we will tackle the debris of the evening meal with keen enjoyment. After a long day at the office it is delightful to steep one's hands in hot dishwater (which acts as an excellent febrifuge for the brain and a tonic for weariness of the body) and pass through the purifying and homely gestures of ablution and wiping. These simple tasks of the hand always induce a pleasant and domestic train of thought. We know one poet, and not such a bad poet either, who always says he can write his best lyrics after a bout with the evening dishes. And no manufacturer ever gives so pink and charming a glow to the hands as a half-hour with the dishpan.

How many husbands, we wonder,
have learned the first rule of the diswasher's technique? You must have plenty of hot water, but always use cold water on any utensils where eggs have been broken. Heat hardens the yolk, and boiling water poured upon an egg-smear plate will so solidify and solder the filices that it will take sandpaper to remove them.

If any husband should ever protest against being asked to wash the dishes let his wife refer him to II Kings, 21:13.

AVENGED HIS POISONED PET

Mean Way in Which Owner of Marauding Cat Got Even With Its Executioner.

A member of a certain national organization was laughing over certain attacks on the institution.

"These attacks," he said, "are clever —clever but crooked. They bring a story to my mind.

"A man owned a big black cat that used to sneak off to the butcher's and steal meat. The butcher warned the man to keep his thiefing cat at home, but no attention was paid to the warning, and so finally the butcher declared:

"If that pesky cat steals any more of my stock I'll poison it."

"Well, a few days later the cat made off with a leg of lamb, and the butcher, true to his word, sprinkled bits of poisoned steak about. The next morning the black cat lay cold and stiff before its master's door.

"The cat's owner waited till the butcher shop was crowded with saugeau buyers. Then he tucked the corpse under his arm and strode in through the crowd.

"Here you are, John," he said, slamming the dead cat down on the meat block, beside the sausage machine. 'Here you are. That makes 78. I'll fetch in the 22 others in the course of the day.'"

Restoring Mesopotamia.

Under British occupation the fertile regions of Mesopotamia are being returned to productivity, for which this region was celebrated in Biblical days.
This is disclosed in official dispatches received at Washington from Bagdad.
Under Turkish rule in some places nothing was produced.

The British authorities, to save a large part of the population from starvation and to provide work, immediately set about, as soon as the Turks were driven out, to construct canals for irrigation and to encourage the population to plan for the next harvest. An Arabian labor corps was organized locally and three Indian labor corps were employed.

As a result a new irrigation canal has been opened at Mansarich, seventy miles northeast of Bagdad on the Difla river, by which 300,000 acres already are being irrigated.

The King Charles Statue.

King Charles I may now breathe freely once more. Workmen have taken away the sandbags and scaffolding of the statue of King Charles I in Trafalgar square. This is the first time the head of the Stuarts has been permitted to breathe freely for many months. All sorts of speculations have been rife as to the reason for the extensive protection that has been accorded this statue, one of them being that there was a Jacobite at the office of works. The probable reason, however, is the undeniable beauty of the statue.—London Mail.

Identification No. 1.

When a soldier gets his identification disk handed to him and it runs up to 317,541 or 2,783,596—or some such colossal number, he begins to meditate briefly on the subject of who has
No. 1.

The Stars and Stripes answers his query with the information that in the infancy of the A. E. F., No. 1 was assigned to Sergt. Arthur B. Crenn of the medical department. Where and what he is now is not vouchsafed, but by this time he may be a lieutenant colonel.

Another Star Shell.

By the invention of a new "star" shell the night fighting efficiency of the navy will be increased at least 25 per cent, the war department has said in an official statement. The shell is suitable for guns of from three to five-inch caliber. Its value lies in the fact that its increased illuminating power may be used without betraying the position of the craft using it.—Navy Life Magazine.

ALDERMEN MEET

A special meeting of the aldermen was held Monday evening to assign a hearing on July 23 on taking land on Elliott street, for municipal purposes. The hearing on this matter had already been set for September 8th, but as the city's option expired sometime in August it was thought advisable to take the land before that time.

Vice President Cole presided and the only members absent were President Harriman, and Aldermen Allen, Holt, Blake and Clement.

In addition to the above business the board authorized the payment of a war tax of $59.52 on the police ambulance, $1358 for a new runway at the Crafts street stable, $125 for continuing the work of the Soldiers' Employment bureau, and $800 for more Soldiers' testimonials. The usual contribution of $460 per month was made to the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Co. for July and August, water mains ordered laid in various streets at an expense of $10,331.95 and street sprinkling ordered on Marshall street, Lincoln road and Dexter road. The Edison Co. was granted a pole relocation on Marshall street, garage permits were granted Dr. H. P. Small, Elgin street, and W. H. Rogers, W. F. Ferrin and Abigail F. Stevens on Page road, express licenses were granted Walter A. Clay, Francis J. Lill, a carriage license to M. F. Lyons and a permit to move a building across Hawthorne avenue to the Garden City Associates.

KILL THE CROWS

To the Editor:

Lovers of birds, especially those who are accustomed to look for them in the parks of the city, are much perturbed by the devastation in their ranks caused by the crow.

As is well known, the crow is the deadly enemy of the farmer. He begins in planting time to pick up and root out the sprouting grain, and in the autumn when it is ripe does extensive damage.

But the crow is also a nest robber, and he lives up to his reputation. He is the implacable enemy of birds from the size of the chipping sparrow to that of the night heron and blue duck. He eats the eggs and young of these birds, and thus makes it very difficult for the birds to raise their young.

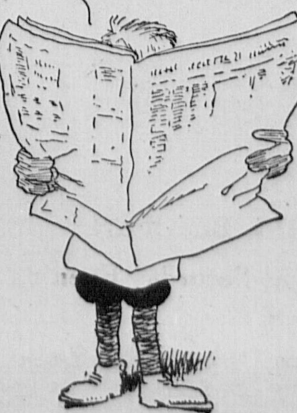

Hearing a great commotion among the robins the other day, a resident of Newton looked out of her window and saw an ugly crow fly from the park opposite her house to the bough of a tall pine tree with a young bird in its bill which he deposited on the bough and speedily began to devour.

There are laws asking owners of cats to keep them at night, and to feed them in order to protect the young birds. Cannot some way be found to exterminate the crow which is causing the song birds in Newton and vicinity to become alarmingly less each year?

A lover of birds.

DEATH OF JONAS BUTTERFIELD

On June 17, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. H. G. Small, Los Angeles, Cal., Jonas Butterfield passed away in the 86th year of his age.

Mr. Butterfield was for many years a resident of Newton. He was a well known frequenter of the Newton Public Library, and perhaps no resident of the city made more systematic use of its books, periodicals and newspapers.

Mr. Butterfield came to this country from England, the first time in 1859 at the time when sailing vessels were the usual means of crossing the Atlantic. He travelled in the middle and southern states where he saw much of the slave trade and which he deplored, for he never could bear to see oppression in any form. He returned to his native country just before the opening of the civil war and married Martha Ward. Four sons and four daughters were born of the marriage. After the death of his wife he brought his children and settled in Newton in 1881. In the early years he became an American citizen. He made frequent visits to his native country and went several times to California.

Jonas Butterfield was exceeding fond of nature. He also had decidedly literary tastes and published poems of merit in the "Bradford Observer." One of his poems, "A Prayer for Serbia," published in 1876 finds its fulfillment in the outcome of this present war.

Mr. Butterfield was most unselfish, kind and helpful. Two sons and four daughters survive him.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Alderman Bancroft L. Goodwin of Fairview street, Newton, and Mr. William W. Heckman of Windermere road, Auburndale, were somewhat injured, late Sunday afternoon while riding in Mr. Goodwin's car in Dedham. Mr. Goodwin was just making the turn into the highway near the Dedham Boat Club, when another machine in attempting to pass by a car moving in the same direction, came into collision with him. Mr. Heckman was thrown to the ground unconscious and it was later found that he had several wounds on the head and body. Mr. Goodwin was thrown violently against the steering wheel and received several body bruises. His machine was badly damaged. The car which ran into them was owned by George S. Stetson and operated by Robert A. Stetson, both of Sharon. This car was slightly damaged.

NEW TELEPHONE DEVICE

When you make a telephone call nowadays, the buzzing tone you hear is proof that the line is being rung. If you call a telephone number with the letter designation "W" and "M," you will hear but one buzzing tone. If you call subscribers having the letter designations of "R" and "J," you will hear two buzzing tones.

If the person you call does not answer promptly, the buzzing tone is repeated as subsequent rings are made. This assures the person calling that his call is receiving attention.

While the change in equipment to give the buzzing tone cannot be made simultaneously in all telephone offices, all telephone users will be interested to know the meaning of the tone when they hear it.

In his opinion, too, China has not been fairly treated by the allies. As Dr. Ferguson has for many years been confidential advisor to the government of China, his words on the Chinese question come with authority.

LOSES GALLONS OF WINE

Drunken Men Create an Unusual Situation at Nonantum

A curious story was told Judge Han- non last Saturday morning in the local police court, when William F. Whalen and James F. Harrigan were arraigned for drunkenness. Another charge was also made at that time for the loss of 42 gallons of wine, owned by Gaetano Santillo of Water- town street, Nonantum.

Harrigan informed the court that he did not know whether he had taken the wine or not. He related how, on the morning of the Fourth, he came home from his shop and regaled him- self on the last half-pint of whiskey that his stock contained. And he then testified that he went down to a friend's shop, where he imbibed four quarts of hard cider. Then, just to finish up the little matter, he got hold of another quart as a chaser.

By that time he and his chum, Wha- len had reached the vicinity of San- tillo's home. They were, as Mr. Har- rigan explained it, "dizzy." That was the last thing that either remembers. But Mr. Santillo, when he got up at 5:30 a. m. on the morning of the Fourth, and went down to his cellar, found a situation that was enough to make him rise in wrath and summon the police.

There, in that cellar, stood Mr. San- tillo's huge tun of wine—but it was nearly empty. The faucet had been turned on and left running. It was running when the astonished and in- dignant Italian entered the cellar. All over the floor lay the 40 odd gallons of the precious vintage. Santillo dashed over to the barrel and turned off the stream of wine. And as he did so, he stumbled over a couple of forms lying in the red pools on the floor. It was Harrigan and his friend Whalen. They were asleep, dead to the world. He tried to arouse them. Nothing doing. He surveyed that scene of disaster, and then his anger rose anew and he called in a friend to watch the pair while he went for the police.

Patrolmen Veducio and Keiff came in response to Santillo's excited alarm. They entered the cellar and tried to wake the two men. It was no use. So they lugged the pair out to the waiting patrol wagon and brought them to the station.

"How much did the wine barrel have left when you found it?" asked the court. "Tree gallons, dirty wine," said Santillo. "How much grapes did it take to make it and what did they cost?" inquired the court.

Santillo gazed for a moment back into the golden age when you could buy grapes and wine and everything. "It take 'bout one ton grapes," said he, "an' cost me 'bout 75 dollar barrel. But now—" and he shrugged his shoulders helplessly.

The judge ordered the two men fined $10 each for drunkenness, and directed that they make restitution within a certain time for the damage caused.

NARROW ESCAPE

Two Young Men Fall Into Charles River While Canoeing

Two young men, who refused to dis- close their identity, owe their lives to the swift action of officer William G. Kiniry of the Riverside Metropolitan Police, who hastened to their aid when a canoe which they were paddling near the police headquarters on the Charles River, upset early Saturday evening, precipitating both men into the water.

The accident occurred about 6.30. The throngs that had been on the river during the afternoon had gone ashore for lunch and the result was that when one of the youths missed a stroke and upset the canoe there was no one near at hand to aid. Police- man Kiniry was patrolling the river a considerable distance away and hur- ried to the scene in his boat, but be- fore he arrived one of the canoeists had sunk for the third time. The other was clinging to the overturned canoe.

The policeman took the latter aboard the police boat, and then seized a long gaff and began to search for the other man. In a couple of minutes he had located his man in about 12 feet of water. He brought the victim to the surface and pulled him aboard the boat. There were no signs of life in the rescued man.

Patrolman Kiniry took the uncon- scious man and his companion ashore where he rolled the former on a barrel and relieved him of several quarts of water. With the application of aromatic spirits the unconscious man began to show signs of life, and he finally recovered. Both men were cared for at the police station until they were able to go home.

The young men declared that they were both excellent swimmers. They concealed their identity for fear of parental wrath, as they had gone canoeing without permission. The one who nearly lost his life affirmed that a shock of cold river water paral- yzed him so that he was unable to swim. He had been under the water nearly four minutes before he was rescued.

WHY SHE IS A REPUBLICAN

Champion of the 12,000,000 work- ers of the United States and idol- ized by them all, Mrs. Raymond Rob- ins' words are worth listening to, al- ways. And it was to find why she has aligned herself so actively with the Republican party that the question was put to her: "Why are you a Re- publican?"

"The largest number of progressive- ly minded men and women are in the Republican party," answered Mrs. Rob- ins, instantly. "They stand for justice, for forward-looking principles, for high ideals. The southern states, (the stronghold of the Democratic party), represents the backward group of our country in those issues in which I am especially interested—the enfranchise- ment of women, the protection of childhood in our nation, the standard- izing of industry for the best develop- ment of men and women workers, and public school education. Where there is Republicanism there are more lib- eral laws, better education, higher ideals. That is why I am Republican."

DEATH OF MRS. NICHOLS

Friends of Mrs. Ella Frances Nich- ols, the wife of Mr. Henry J. Nichols of Burnham road, West Newton, were greatly shocked to learn yesterday morning of her sudden death, follow- ing an illness of three days. She was also a member of the Newtonville Woman's Club.

Mrs. Nichols was born in Sterling, Mass., April 11, 1881, and on her mar- riage to Mr. Nichols in 1906 came to Newtonville to live. Last year they purchased their present home on Burnham road, West Newton. Besides her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Marjorie and her mother, Mrs. Mary A. Egan of Needham. Funeral services will be held tomor- row (Saturday) afternoon at two o'clock at Mt. Auburn chapel.

BENTLEY NIGHT

Newton Lodge of Elks Honor Alderman Leverett Bentley

Notwithstanding the heat of last week Thursday night several hundred Elks gathered at the Elks Club in New- ton to celebrate the "night before" and incidentally to pay a well deserved tribute to ex-alderman Leverett Bent- ley for the excellent work he had done to make former celebrations a success.

The program was in charge of Messrs. George M. Cox, Edwin O. Childs and J. Edward Callanan and lasted well into the morning hours. There was singing and dancing by sev- eral cabaret artists, with some excel- lent imitations of the violin and cornet by a little Scotch lassie, dressed in Highland costume. Mr. Bentley gave several monologues and there were ex- hibitions of dancing and otherwise by Messrs. W. U. Fogwill, Harry B. Ross and others. Mr. Bentley was given a gold fountain pen as a souvenir of the evening.

A COMMUNITY FIELD

Saxony Worsted Company Opens Athletic Field at Nonantum

Nonantum celebrated the Fourth last Friday in a perfectly safe, sane and rational manner, and will forever have a souvenir of the Victory Independence Day in the shape of a community ath- letic field, which was dedicated on that occasion.

The field, which is located on Califor- nia street, opposite Faxon and Cres- cent streets, extends to the river and contains 3 acres.

It has been prepared by the Saxony Worsted Company primarily for the benefit of their employees in that com- pany and its allied company, the Shep- herd Mills. There is a splendid diam- mond for baseball, and a convenient clubhouse for the use of the teams.

The celebration began at nine o'clock when the band put in its appearance and lasted all the morning. There was a flag raising at 9.45 on the roof of the club house, the flag being unfurled by Edwin O. Childs, Jr., the little son of Mayor Childs. The next event was the presentation to Mr. Samuel Hyslop, the agent of the mills, of a handsome framed memorial expressing the grati- tude of the employees, and a magnifi- cent basket of roses. The presentation was made by Mayor Childs who said in part, that Mr. Hyslop had come into the village a perfect stranger, but by the use of brains, attention to business and the mastery of the business he had become an example and an inspiration to all young men and had proved that any one can succeed if they save and study and do the best that is in one.

Mr. Hyslop responded briefly. Mayor Childs then went to the band stand and gave a splendid address praising the spirit of loyalty which had been generated by reason of the war and paying a remarkable tribute to the flag.

The rest of the morning was taken up by a ball game between Saxony Worsted Co. and the Silesia Mills, Mr. Hyslop pitching the first ball. Silesia won by the score of 8 to 3.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. HYSLOP

The following tribute to Mr. Samuel Hyslop, agent of the Saxony Mills at Newton, was sent to "Wisdom's Weav- ings," the monthly magazine of the em- ployees of the U. S. Worsted Co., by Carmine Russo, representing the twist- ing department of that mill:

"It seems only fitting to us that our first contribution of 'Wisdom's Weav- ings' should be an open acknowl- edgment of our respect and love for our great leader, Mr. Hyslop. Not many establishments are fortunate enough to have at the head such a man as Mr. Hyslop, and we, the employees, take this opportunity to make known to him and to our fellow workers how much we appreciate all that he has done for us, and to pledge to him our complete loyalty and co-operation. We are not unmindful of the many cares and responsibilities that rest upon him, and only hope that each and every one of us will do our little bit to help, so that we may lighten the burden, even though ever so little. So here's to Mr. Hyslop, the best of friends, the kindest of employers, and the most up-to-the- minute man in the employ of the United States Worsted Co."

DEATH OF MR. EARLY

Mr. James A. Early, for many years postmaster at Newton Lower Falls and superintendent of the post office there for the past twenty-five years, died on Monday night at his home, 93 Washington street, Wellesley side. Mr. Early had been suffering from heart disease for several months. He was born in 1864 in Newton Lower Falls, the son of Timothy Early and Ellen Gallagher Early. At the age of fifteen he entered business life as a clerk in the business establishment of which he has been proprietor for the past twenty-eight years, in Newton Lower Falls. In 1891 Mr. Early married Sarah Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dolan.

Besides his widow, he is survived by six children, Eleanor Early, John Early, Elizabeth Early, Philip Early, Edna Early and Catherine Early; also by three brothers and four sisters.

LITTLE RUTH WANTED TO BUY "FRIF STAMPS"

Every week on pay day Ruth's auntie brought her one or more Thrift Stamps. Auntie was not only very fond of Ruth but she was a young woman of business and understood the value of small savings. She wanted Ruth to be well provided for and therefore made an investment for her in the way Uncle Sam had made possible for people with small incomes every time the payman had been around.

Three-year old Ruth was deeply interested in the stamps. She literally cried for them. Late one cold afternoon last winter when it had grown quite dark, Ruth insisted on going out. Nothing would dissuade her from it. She was finally bundled up and the door opened into the blackness beyond. Nothing daunted, Ruth went out alone and trotted up the street ever so far. Mamma, following after, wondered what the baby could want. As there seemed no end to the journey she finally asked Ruth what she was going for. The answer came promptly, "Ruth buy Frif Stamps."

Ruth seems to have learned her lesson and Auntie is more in earnest now than ever in buying Thrift Stamps and seeing them turn into War Savings Stamps for baby Ruth.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Some of your hurts you have cured. And the sharpest you still have survived. But what torments of grief you endured From the evils which never arrived.

CLEANING HINTS.

Before cleaning a room with painted walls, if possible choose a damp or rainy day. Then place a large pan of water on the stove to boil, close the room and let the steam fill the room, then proceed to clean the walls; the steam will have softened and loosened the dust on the walls so that it cleans much easier than without this treatment.

Mirrors are quickly cleaned by using a cloth dampened in alcohol. The polish is easily put on, but care should be taken not to rub a varnished frame with an alcohol cloth.

When cleaning hardwood floors a mop or cloth dipped in oil is much better to use than one dampened with water. All spots may be washed if necessary and the oil rubbed out of it; this brings back the polish.

Old pieces of outing flannel make fine cleaning cloths; it is soft and easily wrung dry.

A cheap floor wax may be made by melting a pound of beeswax and mixing it with three pints of turpentine. Melt the wax cut in small pieces over hot water.

Melted paraffin wax mixed with turpentine makes a fine mixture for dust cloths; dip the cloth into the mixture, wring out, and it is ready to use for several months.

A little paraffin used on the kitchen range keeps it looking much better than any other treatment. This is a good dressing to give stoves left during a season (unused), as it prevents rust.

Clean paint brushes by soaking them in vinegar (hot), then wash in soap suds and they may be put away soft and clean.

Muriatic acid will dissolve the lime in the teakettle, and the deposit of iron in the sink and the toilet; use it on a swab in the porcelain-lined vessels, and be sure not to leave it too long or it will dissolve the enamel itself. If used in the teakettle, great care should be used to boil it out with fresh water before using again, as the acid is poisonous.

Before working in the garden fill the nails with soap, then there will be less manuring to be done after the work is over.

Demonstration Home Garden

—Now that the hot dry weather is with us there are certain garden practices that should be followed if one is to obtain the maximum production from his garden.

A thorough cultivation of the whole garden at least once a week—better twice a week if you have time—is perhaps the best solution of the problem. One need not cultivate deeply, but just enough to keep an inch or two of the surface soil loosened up. Such a practice conserves the soil moisture to a marked degree and is the best method known to prevent weed growth.

Don't think you have got to water your garden every night in order to produce results. Keeping the surface soil loosened up in good shape does more good than a ten minute sprinkling with the hose. If your garden needs water, soak it thoroughly until the soil becomes muddy, then stir up a good mulch as soon as it dries out enough.

The most destructive pests we have to look out for at this period are the potato bugs, squash bugs and cucumber beetles. Spray the potatoes every two weeks with a Bordeaux-Lead spray. Remember to use the manufactured fungicides and insecticides three times as strong as the manufacturer recommends.

Spray the cucumber and squash vines every week or ten days. The Bordeaux-Lead spray is about as good a spray for these pests as you can get. If squash bugs are very troublesome get rid of them by trapping. Place a piece of shingle on the ground near the root. The squash bugs will hide beneath it at night and can be collected in the morning. Moth balls are also a good repellent for squash bugs. Place one or two in each hill.

It isn't too late yet to put in another planting of shell or string beans, lettuce, Kohl-Rabi, turnip, cauliflower or late cabbage plants.

Watch out for plant lice now. It is during the hot weather that they increase so rapidly. It is a good plan to inspect your potato and tomato vines every day if possible. And then when you do find them don't wait until they cover the vines.

There are continual complaints at police headquarters of the stoning of trains as they pass thru various parts of the city. The mischief is undoubtedly done by small boys, who do not realize the seriousness of their action and the danger to passengers in the cars. Parents have a duty to perform in this direction and the strap or shingle should be used freely in case words do not bring correct results. In the meantime, every citizen should make it a duty to report at once to police headquarters any evidence obtained of this most malicious mischief.

The intention of the owners of the Saxony Worsted Mills at Nonantum to allow the use by the whole community of the splendid athletic field just completed, should be heartily commended and its example duplicated in other parts of the city. Employers with these standards have no so called "labor" problem to bother their production.

Every true friend of the temperance cause will rejoice over the splendid results shown in the Boston police courts, as the effect of prohibition. From an average daily list of drunks of 75 to 100 before July 1st to about 4 or 5 after July 1st the average citizen cannot fail to find ample evidence in favor of the present as compared with the past.

It is about time the Metropolitan Park Commission began to start the work of carrying the Charles river boulevard from Charlestown road to Maple street.
The appropriation bill was signed by the Governor, weeks ago. Why this delay, gentlemen?

It was a great and glorious Fourth of July.

TRIBUTE TO MISS ROBINSON

In the removal of Miss Ella M. Robinson from the Williams School, Auburndale, is meeting with a distinct loss. Miss Robinson has won many loving and life long friends during her seventeen years of teaching in this town. Parents and pupils know that her work has been thorough and her influence abiding. It is not only in the schools but in the community that her strong spirit has been felt.
Her devotion to her aged parents has been an example of self sacrificing love. When her mother became shut in by the infirmities of age, Miss Robinson's love and artistic nature triumphed in the building of a home on Williston road, which during the mother's declining years, was an open house of charming hospitality. Never was Miss Robinson more completely herself than when receiving her many friends in her own home. Her afternoon teas will not soon be forgotten.
After her mother's death she sold the home where she could not be happy without the dear life long companion.

Last summer she bought and thoroughly remodeled the old Morgan homestead on Central street hill, which she has recently sold.
Her loss will be most seriously felt in the Congregational Church. As a member of the Parish Work Committee she was eager to be of service. In the Sunday School she has taught the banner class of high school girls, and has served untiringly on the Program Committee. Many will miss her familiar presence and ready sympathy.
She left Auburndale on July first with her friend, Miss Potter, of Lasell Seminary, for a trip through the Rocky Mountains, and the Grand Canyon.
Terminating with a motor trip over Southern California, where Miss Potter will leave her. We wish her happiness and success in the west.

Adaline A. Davidson.

DEATH OF MRS. EVERETT

Mrs. Lydia Coffin Everett died at her home on Parker street, Newton Centre, on July 2nd, after a brief illness. Mrs. Everett was the daughter of the late Henry and Eliza Starbuck Coffin of Nantucket, where she was one of the largest merchants in the whaling industry. She married the late Richard Boardman Everett, a commission dry goods merchant of Boston, where she lived after her marriage. Mrs. Everett is survived by one brother and two sisters—L. S.
Coffin, Mrs. E. C. Rogers and Mrs.
George L. Carlisle; also three children, Henry C. Everett of Boston and Miss Ellen M. Everett and Miss Lily
C. Everett, who resided with their mother.

COLBY ESTATE SOLD

The large estates of Newton are gradually being divided. One of these which for over seventy years has been a landmark of beauty with its splendid trees and unique wall is the Garner Colby property on Centre street.
The last twenty acres has just been sold and it is expected that Mr.
Schrafft, the purchaser, will build a fine house suitable for so commanding a position.

There are now but four estates on the south side of Centre street between Cabot and Mill streets—a half-mile of road unexcelled for beauty anywhere in the vicinity of Boston.

The old deeds of the Colby property designated the frontage as so many feet by meets and bounds along the road extending from Watertown to Dedham! Capt. Spring, who in revolutionary times owned this land, opened a road called Mill Lane, to his grist mill at the outlet of Bullough's pond—but at that time the lane was parallel to its present location and ran through the valley where there was a "coal hearth" at which the farmers burned their wood into charcoal.

Mr. Joseph L. Colby retains the original Colby homestead and a certain portion of the acreage and long may the house stand as a dignified example of domestic architecture of 75 years ago.

DEATH OF A FORMER RESIDENT

Mrs. Flora Lees Butler, whose death in New York city was announced this week, was formerly a resident of Newton Centre. She was the wife of George M. Butler of Rochester, N. Y., who formerly was actively connected with the furniture trade in Boston. Mrs. Butler had been in ill health for some time and her stay in the hospital in New York, where she underwent an operation, covered two months or more.

She was born in Lowell and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lees. Miss Lees took up missionary work, for which she specially studied in Boston, and she was a graduate of the Gordon Training School. She served as a member of the staff in Boston of the late Rev. Daniel Win-gate Waldron, D.D., who was for many years city missionary and whose own death occurred on Dec. 5 last. Miss Lees was prominently identified with missionary and similar work of Park Street Church, with which she was connected for some years, as was her husband, Mr. Butler, who was a deacon there when a resident of Boston and a leader in church activities. Miss Lees married Mr. Butler eighteen years ago. He was at the time a resident of Boston but after their marriage he and his wife took up their residence in Newton Centre.

He and Mrs. Butler removed to Rochester a few years ago. Mrs. Butler is survived, in addition to her husband, by her mother, Mrs. Lees.

POLICE NOTES

Five young men from the Nonantum District who were arrested Sunday evening following a police raid on Jackson road, and were locked up charged with playing cards on the Lord's Day and with being present where a game was in progress, were arraigned before Judge Bacon Monday morning. They all pleaded guilty. Sergt. Seaver and the police officers testified that the young men have been playing continually out of doors, on one of the main corners of the district, a proceeding which has caused considerable comment and indignation among the citizens.

Judge Bacon ordered that they be placed on probation with a suspended fine for each, and gave them some advice about playing cards in full view of the street cars and pedestrians on Sunday. There was no direct evidence that the young men had been playing for money.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE

Gordon's Cambridge Central Square
Theatre, one of the most popular vaudeville and photoplay houses in Greater Boston is showing its popularity to its many new admirers who have been in the habit of going to Boston, and who now can see all the big time acts and photoplays without paying the excessive increased carfare rates which went into effect last Thursday.

If you wish to know how any of the mystifying sleight-of-hand tricks are done, just ask Charles Ray, star of Thomas H. Ince's latest photoplay,
"Hay Foot, Straw Foot" which comes to the Central Square Theatre, Cambridge, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

In this picture Mr. Ray appears as an entertainer at a narmy camp theater under the stage name of Abdul ben Mazzazza who had to perform all kinds of illusions. To get into the part Mr. Ray had to take a course in legerdemain and now says he is next to all the tricks that make the wise heads in the usual audience scratch their ears.

During the filming of the production
Mr. Ray had great sport at the Thomas H. Ince studio mystifying everyone on the lot with the stunts he had learned. When the scene was finally shot, however, he had to give them all away for the story requires him to bungle all his tricks. Doris Lee is his leading woman.

There will be five special vaudeville acts headed by vaudeville's phenomenal tenor "The Man Off the Ice Wagon."

There will be an entire change of vaudeville and photoplays, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, headed by Jesse
L. Lasky's "A Daughter of the Wolf" featuring Lila Lee.

Grand Sacred Concert, Sunday Evening at 8.

The home of Dominic C. Natoli of 159 Ward street was badly damaged by a fire Monday night which was caused by a defective chimney. The alarm was rung in from box 84 at a few minutes past 9 and it took an hour and a half of the hardest work on the part of the firemen to save the house.

A NEW FIRM

Walter and Harold Moore, two well-known Newton men, will on Monday open an exclusive Newton agency for the sale of Hood Tires at 6 Hall street, opposite the Newton Savings Bank.

Besides carrying a full stock of this popular brand of cord and fabric tires, they will also be prepared to supply Champion and A. C. spark plugs, Vacuum Oil Company's mobile oil and the Keystone Lubricating Company's grease and other accessories. A feature of the store will be a Brunner Air Compressor, with automatic control, which will supply free air, night and day.

The young men will do business under the firm name of Moore and Moore. Walter Moore has only recently returned from France, where he served in the Medical Corps at Base Hospital 44. Previous to his enlistment he was connected with the Hood Rubber Co. at Watertown, handling the tire of that name. His brother, Harold, is the former editor of the Newton Free Press, and for several years has been the secretary of the Newton Board of Trade. Both men have had a wide business experience and their many friends in Newton and the surrounding cities and towns have extended to them the best of wishes for a successful career.

Well-Preserved Stakes.

Some of the piles in use in Amsterdam are three to four hundred years old. That part which is not in the ground in salt water is often bored by a pile worm near the surface, but is preserved by driving in nails with very large heads, so as to give the pile an iron coating. This coating is then transformed by the water into a layer of rust, which protects the wood from the pile worm. This process must be repeated every fifteen years.

To Save Pencils.

A great saving of lead pencils may be effected by using metallic pencil holders which can be bought at the stationer's for 10 or 15 cents. In this way you will get the use of almost the entire length of the pencil. Ordinarily about one-third of the pencil goes to waste. An ordinary stenographer or clerk will by this plan save about 30 pencils a year.—Thrift Magazine.

Dependability.

The ability to be dependable gathers up all the flowers of virtue in the human soul and brings their essence into daily use. It turns the watchdog into a spiritual companion, and paints the most humble heart with lines of beauty.

NO DISGRACE TO FEEL FEAR

One Result of War Has Been Sane Idea of What Constitutes Real Bravery.

An English observer calls attention to the fact that our world war has destroyed the fear of being afraid. Heretofore, even to most distant antiquity, the one quality insisted on in the soldier was that he should be fearless and the more callously so the better. The faintest tremor of timidity was a black mark against the most respondent knight as well as the lowliest Bowman or halbardier, and the schooling for war was an utter defiance of the personal risk.

This theory held, as many will remember, even till the period of the Boer war, when the British suffered so severely in officers because it was held cowardly for a commander to seek cover. Men, then as now, felt fear, for that is one of flesh's attributes and, indeed, is one of the most valuable of human possessions, since fear is our protection from dangers and harms innumerable. We fear wild beasts to avoid them, snakes and spiders to increase our attention, storms and tempests that we may prepare means of escape from them.

So it was only in battle that chivalry insisted that man should be without fear, or pretend to be.

With the coming of new warfare, however, all lands at once came to a more sane understanding and the old physical bravery has given place to moral resolution. The man who now enters the hell of shell fire, of hurled flames and deadly gases, no longer attempts to fool himself into the belief that he is not afraid. He knows full well and only a stupid nature could avoid the knowledge that the human is at the mercy of forces a million times beyond his own ability to counter. The old knight might really believe he was able to unhorse all the enemies that rode against him and therefore might conceivably be without fear, but how can a soldier feel that way when facing modern weapons of destruction?

Therefore, it is no longer a disgrace to feel fear or to admit it; the only disgrace is to allow fear to prevent one doing his duty. How much finer fiber is needed for this new defiance!

Need for More Consuls.

The chairman of the shipping board has called the attention of congress and the people to the need of enlarging our consular service abroad. In view of the fact that our great merchant marine will be released for use in foreign trade.

Mr. Hurley tells us, observes the Independent (New York), that the United States will have 25,000,000 tons of merchant shipping by the end of 1920, and that as fast as these ships can be freed from military work they will enter commerce. The present consulates would be entirely inadequate to handle this enlarged business. There are not enough of them, their staffs are too small and they are handicapped by inexperience with duties that will be demanded and by antiquated regulations. Even now the burden of work, especially in the way of inquiries to be answered, is overtaxing the undermanned and underpaid force. Mr. Hurley therefore pleads that immediate steps be taken to remedy the situation.

"We need more consuls and larger consular staffs," he tells us. "If we do not provide them today and prepare for the great growth in our merchant marine and trade after the war, I fear that we shall suffer a serious breakdown."

You've Heard 'Em.

"Look here," said the city editor to the cub reporter, "you should write everything as briefly as possible. Instead of saying 'the middle-aged bald-headed performer in the hired aggregation of followers of Orpheus who nightly provide the harmony at one of our leading temples of mirth, seized his trombone firmly in his hands, placed his feverish lips to the mouthpiece and sounded thereon an unearthly tone like the wailing of a lost soul on the main street of Inferno'—now shorten that up."

So the reporter merely wrote: "The slip horn player in the orchestra blew a helva note."

A Cattle Queen.

A cattle-shipping season to the Eastern stockyards is in full blast, and Mary Vail, Los Angeles heiress, said to be the richest maiden in California, is in these large sales and shipments, figuring as a notable cattle queen. Miss Vail is the daughter of the late Walter Vail, who had over 300,000 head of steers and sheep on his famous ranches. Under the direction of Miss Vail and her mother the cattle domain left by the father and husband greatly increased in value. The meat barons are paying them $1,000,000 for steers and sheep this fall.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Back in the Game.

"Another sign that the war is over," "Yes."
"An old-fashioned stock promoter, wearing diamonds and flashy clothes, was in here the other day."
"Well! Well!"
"Those chaps are crawling out of their dugouts again!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Realization.

"How's prohibition workin' in Crimison Gulch?"
"All right," replied Three Finger Sam. "The boys are beginnin' to realize that a man's conversation is jes' as interestin' when he's sober an' a heap more reliable."

The ladies of the Stone Institute were given an unusual treat on the Fourth through the generosity of Miss Abby Spear. Ice cream, cake and confectionaries were in great abundance. They were also entertained by Corporal Russel Skinner, who was spending the holiday with his mother at the Institute.

The women employed at the Saco-Lowell shops gave a farewell party on Tuesday at the home of Miss E. W. Sabin, to one of their number, Miss Brinke N. Larsson, who is soon to leave for a year in Sweden. A picnic supper was served on the lawn, after which Miss Larsson was presented with a folding camera. The evening was made merry with games and stories. Delightful piano selections rendered by Mrs. Evelyn Hasty added to the enjoyment of the evening.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Impelled by the popular demand Manager Carl Hunt has once again been forced for the nonce to abandon his policy of a new musical comedy every week in order to produce "Florodora" a second week. This gem of musical comedy will, therefore, be given at the Plymouth Theatre next week. That such would be the case might have been expected, for never has there been a more popular musical show than this, which ran for nearly two years in London before the public would consent to its being withdrawn, and then duplicated this marvelous success in this country. Miss Dorothy Maynard, the charming, diminutive prima donna of the company, whose versatility grows more and more amazing as the weeks go by, each week seeing her scoring a hit in a new hole, has added new and big laurels by her performance of "Dolores" in Florodora. Never has the part been more alluringly portrayed.

Goethe Memorial at Weimar.

The genius of Goethe and Schiller characterize Weimar in many forms of civic beauty. Goethe, some years before his death, laid out a large public park in the form of a garden and without an enclosure of any kind. There a quaint relic of its originator remains in the stone altar round which a serpent climbs to eat the votive bread. Upon the altar is an inscription to the "genius hujus loci."

NORUMBEGA PARK
That quaint, charming, and ever-popular play, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be given twice daily beginning Monday by the Liberty Players at Norumbega Park, the pleasure Mecca of Greater Boston in warm weather. This charming comedy, so filled with human interest, pathos, and genuine humor follows closely the delightful story which is Kate Douglas Wiggin's masterpiece, and which has earned for her a place among the undying writers of the world. That it will be competently handled by these skilled and enthusiastic performers goes without saying.

An event of more than ordinary importance is the announcement from the Park management that Tuesday, July 29th, has been set aside for the annual baby show.

A SAD CASE

A story of neglect, indifference, brutality, and pocket patriotism such as has seldom come to the attention of the authorities was brought out in the Newton Court yesterday morning before Judge Bacon, when Joseph Klignman, aged 24, a chauffeur residing at 456 Watertown street, Newton, was found guilty of neglect of his wife, Lena, and ordered by the court to change his ways of life, and support his wife and seven-month-old child.

Klignman, according to testimony by his wife and other witnesses, married at the time of the draft bill. He declared that he wanted to escape the unpleasant business of fighting for his country, when there was a chance to make money. His wife said that he told her afterward that he considered the matter "entirely one of business."

Mrs. Klignman, who is remarkably pretty, and a girl of apparent refinement, declared that she did everything in her power to help him avoid being drafted. She went to the boards, both local and district, in Lawrence and pestered all authorities concerned. She fought her case for her husband inch by inch to the court of highest appeal, and carried her young child about with her to prove that she needed his assistance in supporting the family, all in the belief that he loved her.

While the war was in progress there was never a bit of trouble. The little woman had won her case and Klignman remained home. Then came the signing of the armistice. Immediately, she testified, the husband changed his attitude.

"He said that he no longer needed me," she told Judge Bacon, in response to a question.

"He nagged at me every day. He beat me one day while we were in a court house or the station. Then the other day he tried to get my diamond engagement ring, but I had the baby in my arms and he began to cry, so the father couldn't get the ring. Then, a few days later, he demanded the ring again. I refused to give it to him. He knocked me down on the floor and nearly broke my finger trying to get the ring, and finally he did get it."

Mrs. Klignman's mother's brother testified that Klignman told him he had taken the ring so as to have some money if his wife should bring him into court. He testified also that Klignman had said he did not want the wife and child now that the danger of draft was over. It would cost him money to support them.

Finally his cruelty became such that his wife went home with the baby to her mother, and he sent her $2.50 a week for the support of both herself and the little boy. Judge Bacon directed that Klignman be declared guilty of neglect, and ordered to pay his wife $8 a week for her support. Klignman immediately appealed. He was then ordered to furnish surety for his appearance before the Superior Court in its next sitting in September to the amount of $300.

At a sale held by the children of Miss Lewinthal and Miss Marcy's school, enough money was made to fill 36 Refugee bags (10 by 18 inches), each of which contains besides the usual sewing materials, a towel, face cloth, soap, brush and comb, toothbrush, stockings and two handkerchiefs, including these, over 125 articles were sent out the first week in July. Local needs have now, for the most part, been met, but calls for foreign relief are urgent, and some help would be gladly appreciated in the workroom, which will be opened every Thursday in July and August.

COPLEY THEATRE—"Two Pairs"
The new farce which the Henry Jewett Players are acting at the Copley has proved so mirth-provoking that it will be continued for a fourth week. It is the work of Donald MacLaren, an English actor, who has appeared on the American stage as well as in the playhouses of his own country. His plot, as its title suggests, revolves about two men and two women. Both couples are young, the men being master and valet, and the women are mistress and maid. At the beginning of the play they are all unknown to one another, although there is an understanding between their fathers that Vincent Stirling and Sylvia Esmond are some day to be married.

A visit is planned by Vincent to Sylvia's home with himself posing as his valet and his valet as himself. All unknown, Sylvia is up to the same game, with herself as her maid Lucy, and Lucy as her mistress. Out of this simple scheme arises many complications, which the dramatist handles to the extent of all their farcical possibilities.

The cast includes E. E. Clive as Boulton, Nicholas Joy as Vincent Stirling, Cameron Matthews as Mr. Stirling, H. Conway Wingfield as Mr. Esmond, Viola Roach as Lucy, Jessamine Newcombe as Sylvia and Leonard Craske as John Esmond.

SENSATIONAL ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

Man Jumps from Echo Bridge into Charles River Without Serious Injury

A sensational attempt at suicide was made late last Friday afternoon, when Tony Gouzouf, living on Highland avenue, Needham side of Newton Upper Falls, jumped from the top of Echo bridge in that village into the Charles river below.

By almost a miracle he escaped being dashed to pieces, missing the rocks by a few inches. He was rescued from drowning through the quick action of patrolman James A. Mills of the Newton police force.

Gouzouf was seen to enter the path leading to the bridge about 4 o'clock. After loitering about the middle of the structure a few minutes, he suddenly climbed the side wall and hurled his hat up into the air. Then he leaped into the air, out over the deep, rock-lined gorge below, where the river flows and twists over bowlders and ledges.

A shout from a witness attracted the attention of patrolman Mills, who was walking a few hundred feet away, and as soon as he saw what had happened he descended into the gully to save the unfortunate victim. Gouzouf was lying, semi-conscious, in the center of the slender stream that the river makes at this point. He had missed a jagged boulder by a few inches.

The water was about six feet deep, and the force of the fall had been broken before Gouzouf reached the bottom. The policeman leaped down the steep bank, which is 15 feet above the water at this point and plunged into the current. He seized Gouzouf and attempted to drag him toward safety.

Suddenly the victim revived and began a terrific struggle. The policeman was in danger of sinking himself, but after a great effort forced Gouzouf against the bowlder which had so nearly put an end to the desperate man's worries. There Mills held him fast with one hand and clutched the rock with the other, shouting for help.

A woman in a passing automobile heard the cries and came to the edge of the gorge. When she saw what was happening, she hastened to a nearby house and called the Newton Police Headquarters, and inside of seven minutes the ambulance with several officers were on the scene. They made a human ladder and pulled the victims out of their dangerous position.

Gouzouf lost his wife last November and has five small children, the eldest but seven years of age. It is said that he was much worried over the care of the children and the increasing cost of living.

He is a moulder in the Saco-Lowell shops and it is said that he was afraid to go to work every day for fear something would happen to the children. He did not work on Friday and brooding over his situation evidently unhinged his mind.

A remarkable feature of the case is the fact that in his jump of 125 feet into the river, he received no injuries, whatever, not even a scratch.

He was taken to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance.

Gouzouf who is also known at the Saco-Lowell mill at Goucher, is now at the Psychopathic Hospital in Brookline.

At a meeting held in the State Armory, West Newton on Monday evening, over 400 veterans of the late war with Germany were present and adopted a constitution and bylaws and elected permanent officers of a post in the American Legion.

Capt. Edward Edmunds, Jr., temporary commander presided and the nominating committee reported a list of officers, with two nominations for each office.

The ballot resulted as follows—

Vice-Commander

Historian
Thomas W. Hanrahan 223

The constitution and by laws reported by the committee were approved after raising the annual dues to $2.00, payable semi-annually.

The officers of the post were authorized to act as an executive committee until the next meeting when nine other members would be elected from a list of 18 names to be submitted at that time.

Edmunds was formerly a captain in the 102nd Infantry. He served for several years in Co. C, and had been promoted to Second Lieutenant when that company went overseas as part of Co. C, 101st Infantry. He was later transferred to the 102nd Infantry, and won promotion to Captain for bravery under fire.

Oswald J. McCourt is overseer of the poor for the City of Newton and during the war served in the Navy. At the time of his discharge he was a chief petty officer. Harry W. Strandquist was a member of the 102nd Machine Gun Battalion; Hickey was in Co. C, 101st Infantry; Hanrahan was with the 301st Engineers and Fr. Farrell was Chaplain of the 103rd Field Artillery and a recipient of the croix de guerre.

THE $100 GRATUITY

Ample Opportunity for Newton Men to Make the Necessary Application

War Service Secretary Ernest Sterling in answer to many inquiries, has issued the following statement relative to application blanks for the $100 State Bonus:

Blanks are now ready for distribution. Call any evening at the Service Department in the Newton Y. M. C. A. and get your blank filled out and sworn to in the presence of a notary public.

Those entitled to a Bonus must remember this:

They must file their application, properly made out, and with it their discharge. The original discharge must be filed; no certified copies will be accepted, as I understand there has been some fraud in connection with certified copies in other states. The discharges, of course, will be returned.

Men who live far from Boston can mail their applications and discharges to room 364, State House. In these—in fact, in all cases—the checks for the $100 bonus will be mailed from this office as soon as the applications and discharges are verified.

Those who are unable to go to the State House and do not care to mail their applications and discharges can give them to the War Service Secretary of the "Y" who would gladly be of service to them.

As will be seen from our advertising columns, Representatives Powers, Early, and Rice have made arrangements to assist applicants for this bonus, on application at the Court House, West Newton, on every evening next week, except Saturday.

The Bureau for returning Soldiers and Sailors, at the Second Church, West Newton, and the Newton Y. M. C. A., also offer assistance and service in these lines.

We also understand that Capt. James A. Waters of Newton Centre has the necessary blanks and will assist any one in that section of the city.

HELPING THE SOLDIERS

Miss Helen M. Seavey of Newtonville, Mass., is willing to forgo her summer vacation that returning soldiers and sailors won't have to wait long for their ham and eggs at the lunch counters in the Eagle and Victory Huts of the Y. M. C. A. here. In fact the Smith College girl is withstanding the summer warmth of New York that she may serve in this capacity.

Miss Seavey with a group of other Smith College girls has taken up the task and when not at work on the lunch counters are sewing on service and wounded stripes or selling postage stamps and giving information.

BABY SHOW

New England's biggest baby show will be staged at Norumbega Park Tuesday, July 29, and Manager J. T. Benson is open for entries. Any baby under two years old may be entered in the show, without respect to color, race or weight. War babies, born while their daddies were fighting abroad for the Allies will be particularly welcome, and a special prize will be given to the prettiest war baby.

Prizes will be also awarded to the prettiest baby under one year and under two years; to the fattest baby under one year and under two years; to the heaviest pair of twins under one year and to the heaviest pair of twins under two years old.

DEATH OF DR. MAYO

Dr. T. Franklin Mayo of 365 Cabot street, Newtonville, died on Sunday in a hospital at Macon, Ga., after a short illness. A telegram announcing his death in the Macon Hospital followed closely a prior message telling of his serious illness at that institution. The first intimation his friends had received of his condition. Dr. Mayo, who was forty-one years old, was a graduate of the Tufts Medical School, and for many years was connected with the Massachusetts General Hospital. For the last four years he had been a travelling representative of the United Drug Company and had a wide acquaintance throughout the United States. He was unmarried. He was a member of Dalhousie Lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Newton, and of Newton Royal Arch Chapter.

Dr. Mayo made his home with his brother, Mr. Harry C. Mayo of Cabot street, Newtonville.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon at Waltham.

COMEDIANS OF OLD GREECE

Statuses Found in Tombs Show That Funmakers Were Much Like Those Applauded Today.

The finding of some statues in an ancient Greek tomb is an opportunity for comparing the comedians of old times with those of today. The statues are believed to date back to the fourth century B. C. They are quite small—in fact, few of them measure more than six inches in height—but owing to the careful modeling they are still quite lifelike in spite of their extreme age. These little figures represent the funny men of that time, and it is curious to note the resemblance to the oddities of Charlie Chaplin.

One associates flowing robes and stately walk with the Greek actors, but these players are shown wearing short trousers and with an obvious caricature of a stately gait. Nothing was sacred from these comedians; even the greatest men of the day were subjects for their wit, which they carried to extremes. A good example of this is a statue of one of the funny men as Hercules, who was universally admired and venerated in ancient Greece. He is shown wearing his leopard skin lightly over one shoulder, with his finger in his mouth, looking coquettishly round him.

The costumes of these little figures must have been brilliant; there are still faint traces of pink and yellow on the terra-cotta of which the statues were made.

FOOD SUPPLIES IN COMMON

No Eskimo Allowed to Go Hungry
While His More Fortunate Brothers Have Plenty.

The arctic explorer, Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, who returned recently after four years spent in the arctic regions, has many interesting things to say about the domestic and social customs of the Eskimo.

All property is owned in common, he tells us. When you enter a village you are not invited to come in. It is your right to enter and, if you are hungry, to help yourself to something to eat. If you happen to visit a house where a poor hunter lives, he says, "Nurket-urange (Nothing to eat)." He does not go hungry, however, because his neighbors have some, and he lives on his neighbors. Everything is divided up that way. If all the villagers are good hunters, their supplies last a long time, but if some are poor hunters, the clever fellow must share with them.

An Eskimo does not eat three meals a day and sleep at regular intervals. He eats when he is hungry, and sleeps when he is sleepy, and he puts it off as long as he can, so that he will enjoy it all the more. He will go around for six hours talking about how hungry he is, and then he will set to work and eat all he can. It is the same way with sleeping. He will go without sleep for 48 hours, and when he cannot keep his eyes open any longer he turns in for a 24-hour snooze.—Youth's Companion.

London's Sea Gull Visitors.

London's winter visitors, the sea gulls, have arrived particularly early this year. Never since the hard winter of 1895 first impelled them high up the river, and into hitherto unknown regions of parks and private gardens, have the birds omitted to make their yearly call to the Serpentine and Kensington gardens' round pond. On the river, of course, the gulls, single or in flights, have been regular habitués for many years, perhaps centuries. Feeding the gulls from the bridges is a favorite occupation for many a Londoner, or rather it used to be, for now the feeding of birds is forbidden, on the ground of waste, by the defense of the realm regulations. The gulls will have to shift for themselves this winter, and Londoners' reputation for hospitality will suffer accordingly in the bird world?—Christian Science Monitor.

Beaten To It.

"Germany, confessing her wickedness and protesting her repentance, reminds me of a rascally fortune hunter," said the director of military aeronautics, General Kenly.

"This fortune hunter was describing his pursuit of a Pittsburg heiress, losing," said his listener, "to have told her, George, re-unworthy of her. That falls!"

The one hunter gave a gloomy sigh.

"Y was going to tell her that," said she told it to me first."

Tough on the Private.

Frank heard that our soldiers in France lack soap, a Portland (Me.) girl sent to a sergeant major of the Fifty-fourth a package of soap leaves, and received in due time a letter from the sergeant major in which he expressed surprise that the girl hadn't remembered that he never smoked. He added that he had given the packet to a private who "rolls is own," and the private liked to have died of nausea.

Largest French Port.

Marseilles has at present in the vicinity of 1,000,000 inhabitants, and it is the largest port in France, as well as one of the wealthiest industrial and commercial centers. It is a distributing market for numerous products required in southeastern France and the French African colonies, but in the case of toys Paris controls the trade.

A WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, July 12.—Although it might seem that all members of Congress would unite in an earnest effort to bring about economy in government expenditures, the singular spectacle which has been presented for some days at the Capitol is, that of opposition and antagonism from minority members to the efforts of the majority to make savings.

Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, former leader of the House Democrats, in a speech derided the efforts of the Republicans to cut appropriation bills and estimates and sought to show that little was really being saved.

At Wrong Time

Loud applause broke from the Democratic side when Mr. Kitchin insisted there had not been any appreciable reduction in appropriations. Evidently, the Democratic membership did not appreciate just in what light this placed them before the country on the issue of economy.

Because Mr. Kitchin challenged a statement of Leader Mondell concerning the large savings effected by this Congress, Mr. Mondell took occasion to reply and to point out that as a matter of fact if Congress had granted all the demands of the administration it would have added over $2,000,000 to the appropriation bills as they passed the House.

"The gentleman from North Carolina," said Mr. Mondell, "has pronounced the extraordinary proposition that it does not make a particle of difference how much we appropriate; that in any event only a certain sum will be expended. I have heard a good many criticisms of Congress at one time and another, but I never heard anything so severe as that from any quarter. If that be true, let us disband all of the appropriating committees and put on the statute books laws carrying all the estimates as presented by the administration. If we were to have done that, we would have added not $1,500,000,000 to the amount carried by the bills we have passed this session but over $2,000,000,000 more than they carried as they passed the House."

Not Correctly Quoted

"The gentleman from North Carolina has stated that the gentleman from California (Mr. Kahn) said the reductions in the Army bill were made possible by the rapid demobilization of the troops. The gentleman from North Carolina did not accurately quote the gentleman from California. What he said in his report on the Army bill was that demobilization was progressing somewhat faster than the War Department anticipated when it made its estimates last January for an Army of 509,000 enlisted men and 28,000 officers. If it were true, as the gentleman from North Carolina contends, that the reductions that we have made, were made possible by the action of the departments of administration, how does it happen that the administration agents at the doors of the Senate insisting that all these sums which have been looped off the various bills shall be restored?"

Lobby Hard at Work

"Not only that, but the Shipping Board and the Navy and every department of the Government is at this hour haunting the corridors of the Senate with their agents, lobbying with Senators in an effort to get them to reserve every dollar not only of the former appropriations but of the estimates, and in some cases even to increase the appropriations above the estimates presented to the House."

"If we had followed the recommendations and demands of the administration as presented in official estimates and urged before the committees, we would have carried in these bills more than two billions more than they carried when they passed the House."

"Ah, the gentleman from North Carolina, my good friend and good fellow, a trifle careless in his statements of fact sometimes, I am sure does not want to have the country understand that he believes it makes no difference how much we appropriate. We on this side feel responsible to the people, and we propose to cut these bills as low as is consistent with good public service."

Demonstration Home Garden

A garden is like a farm in that there is always work of some kind to be done on it. If it isn't weeding or cultivating there is always some crop or other that needs attention. About this time of the season there are several "tricks of the trade" so to speak, that can be put to use in many gardens.

When picking New Zealand spinach nip off the shoots at the end of the stems also all side shoots that have become large enough. By practicing this method of harvesting, other young shoots are allowed to grow and a constant supply of the greens may be picked later. Thin out the plants to a foot apart in the row.

Swiss chard should be thinned to six inches between the plants. Break off the outside stems when harvesting. Other shoots will grow from the center of the plant to take the place of those that have been picked.

If you are training your tomatoes to a stake see to it that the suckers are kept thinned out. You will have to go over the vines at least once a week. Do not allow more than two stems to bear fruit.

As coss lettuce and endive reach maturity, tie the outside leaves together overhead. This practice will bleach out the inner leaves and make them tender.

The writer has observed throughout the county many gardeners who still persist in the injurious practice of hilling their potatoes up very high, almost to a picked ridge. The rain can run off of such hills in fine shape and the sun has ample time to dry them out. A low wide oval-shaped hill is better. But best of all plant your potatoes quite deep and practice level cultivation. Then the rain will do the most good and the sun the least harm to your potato crop.

As your squash vines begin to run, cover one or two joints of each runner with earth so that they will take root. Then if the squash vine borer gets into the plant and destroys some of it, you still have several root systems from which the vine can obtain its plant food. Squash vines infested with the vine borer seldom die when this practice is followed.

There are three things for which to work—a trained mind, a skilled hand, a well regulated heart.

Start right this morning. Say nice things. Get up with a smile instead of a frown. It's cheaper and there's more in it. Let the first word be pleasantly spoken, then you have begun the day in the right way.

Many men are more interested in getting their bite than doing their bit.

Energy of will depends upon the depth of motion.

As a rule, a man is a fool.

When it's hot he wants it cool.

When it's cool he wants it hot.

Always wanting what is not.

To live is not merely to breathe. It is to act. It is to make use of our organs, senses, faculties, of all those parts of ourselves which give us the feeling of existence.

The man who has lived longest is not the man who has counted the most years, but he who has invented the most. Many have been buried at the age of one hundred years who had really been dead since they were forty, and there are many men who died at forty-five or thereabouts who crowded more than a century of usefulness and real benefit to mankind in these years.

NEARLY DROWNED

Charles W. Crowley of High street, Newton Upper Falls, a lifeguard at the bathhouse at Allison Park, Nonantum, on Monday rescued ten-year-old Francis Arnold of Main street, Watertown, from drowning off the bathhouse. The boy had sunk for the third time, when Crowley brought him to the surface. He carried him ashore and with the bathhouse matron, Martha O'Halloran, worked over him for half an hour, before he regained consciousness.

Bessie Barriscale's latest photoplay "Tangled Threads" will be shown at Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, together with an all-star bill of vaudeville.

Bessie Barriscale, the captivating blonde star, has a sympathetic role in "Tangled Threads."

"Stepping Out" was one of the best little things John Rutherford Wayne did. Sometimes he "stepped out" with the boys. More often he "stepped out" with Rita, a gay little cafe habitue who camped at the Free Spirits Cafe, the rendezvous of the Free Lovers of Hoboken.

The vaudeville will include Britt Woods, a sensation; Harry and Grace Ellsworth, a "smiling swatting" of song and dance; Cooper and Ricardo, a comedy singing skit entitled "Ah, Gimme the Ring"; Jack Marley, in Gabby Glide of Vaudeville; and Mc Mahon, Diamond and Some Doll.

There will be an entire change of vaudeville and photoplays Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

DIES AT DEPOT

Dr. John F. Dowsley, long a leading dental practitioner in Boston and a foremost figure in his profession, died suddenly yesterday morning near the railroad station in Newton Centre from a heart attack. He had hurried from his home at 205 Homer street, to catch his usual train for Boston, and apparently succumbed to over-exertion. He was at his dental offices in lower Huntington avenue on Wednesday. Last November he underwent an operation, from which he apparently had fully recovered.

He was born sixty-five years ago at St. John's, N. F., and came at the age of fourteen with his parents to the United States. He gained his knowledge of dentistry at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, from which he was graduated and since then he had practised dentistry in Boston for the past thirty-five years, and in his work, in and out of his profession, had become widely known. When the Massachusetts Board of Dental Examiners was formed, in 1887, Dr. Dowsley was made its president and he served in that capacity twenty-seven years consecutively, resigning his office about five years ago.

Dr. Dowsley had been a trustee of the Forsythe Dental Infirmary, and he had been president of the Massachusetts State Dental Society, and also served as president of the National Association of Dental Examiners. He was a member of the Boston Athletic Association, and belonged to the Boston Art Club.

THE ELEVATED STRIKE

Thousands of persons who use the Elevated cars to reach their places of business in Boston have been seriously inconvenienced by the strike which went into effect yesterday morning.

As a consequence the B. & A. service has been utilized to the utmost and special trains have been run to accommodate the traffic. Beginning today the railroad company puts on 25 extra inward bound and 10 extra outward bound trains.

Business houses in the city of Newton and Boston, and adjoining cities and towns, who have a large percentage of workers from this district, were forehanded enough to have jitney lines established at daybreak.

One of the lines of electric cars, running through Newton, benefited by the tieup, and another suffered acutely. The first was the Boston & Worcester which received considerable traffic for the Back Bay districts, from Newton Upper Falls, and Newton Highlands and the Centre. The Middlesex & Boston, however, did not benefit. Its main connection at Newton Corner, for Boston and the intermediate parts of the city, having been broken by the strike.

REAL PATRIOTISM

The following portion of a recent speech delivered by Mr. Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, at Tulsa, Okla., is well worth consideration.

"I plead for a patriotism in peace as well as in war. I insist that we as Americans have not merely that patriotism of good citizenship, at the burning of the soul of men only when their country is in danger, but the patriotism of good citizenship at the fireside, the plow, the mart, in low places and in high places, in season and out of season; let us have the patriotism which moves men to make their country's welfare their own business and in prosaic times of peace interest themselves continually in the practical politics of their community. Good government is possible in no other way.

It is passing strange indeed that men have to be urged to exercise the first privilege of a sovereign citizenship—the right to help govern themselves. Yet such is the fact, and it is because of that fact that most governmental evils develop. Government functions through individuals. These individuals are elected by the processes of practical politics, a sequence which can not be avoided. We can have better government only if we interest ourselves in politics, in the selection of those to whom this government is entrusted, in having thought and voice in its operation, and in making our country's affairs our own business. If a political party does not stand for those things which will bear the severest scrutiny, it is not entitled to succeed and it will not endure. There should be in this country two political parties and both must be strong and virile. It is the greatest safeguard to our institutions. Let the two great political parties then make it their business to see which can develop the best plans for doing the greatest good for the greatest number. Let them measure their acts solely by how they can contribute most to the sum total of the country's good, and let the individual membership in these parties give that attention to the party's affairs which is due that instrument through which and only through which all individuals can apply their patriotism in actual participation in governmental affairs. Let the contest between political parties always be—and in these important days ahead let us make certain that the contest be—who best can serve, who most can give.

There is no zone of twilight in politics or public affairs. It is right, and wrong is wrong, and the same strict standard of morals, equity and justice must obtain as in any private business or professional matter. There has never been a time when men should, and the day is past when men will, tolerate a lax administration of the public's business. The day is passing when men will tolerate anywhere in this country any practice in politics that they would not countenance in the strictest business and professional affairs. When we get our politics entirely on this basis, when we live our patriotism daily, we will do a citizen's full duty, and not until then. I repeat I have no use for the individual who is either "too busy" or "too good" to help. He has no just complaint to make, whatever happens. He is riding on another's ticket. I have an abiding faith that there will be an awakened sense of civic duty as one of the by-products of this war. Hundreds of thousands of men and women who had no inclination, and thought they had not time to take the slightest interest in their government, have arisen in the most splendid spirit and unselfishly carried the burden of the war work. If some small part of the same interest in their country can be maintained some small part of the time they have been giving is still given by them in thought and action to the business of their country, it will bring to the situation an impetus for untold good. Most earnestly I urge that this great new value, this tremendous national asset, which has lately been developed shall not be lost. I urge that this army of men and women who have been the splendid war-workers in every corner of the country, now realize that they have a duty in peace as well as in war, that their country needs their continuing interest, and this continuing interest they owe to their country's welfare.

I repeat and shall continually declare that what we need in this country is not "less politics," but more attention to politics. Politics is the science of government, and what we need is more attention to the science of government. We have fought in France to make certain everywhere that men should have the right to govern themselves, and here in this country, where we have that privilege, I insist that we exercise it. Let us demonstrate the fact it is better to be an American than to be a Prussian by exercising the privilege of our citizenship, the priceless heritage for which we drenched the plains of Europe with our blood.

Let us have the patriotism of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt—not a patriotism which moves us only when an enemy is at our gates, but a patriotism which moves us every day to realize what we owe to the country in which we live, which moves us to discharge that debt by aiding in every way we can to make and keep conditions right in this country.

Here is a story, recently current at the capital, which sheds interesting light upon the universal query as to where the Government's money has gone during the last few years:

A manufacturer of airplane parts was asked to submit a bid for 2,000 airplane accessories which were needed by the War Department. These articles ordinarily cost about $15 each, and the manufacturer thought a bid of $17 each for the number required by the Government would be about right, in view of the fact that they were difficult to get in large quantities.

So he instructed his stenographer to submit a bid at that figure.

But the stenographer, being of war-time quality, made an error, and instead of quoting a price of $17 each, made the figure $117 each.

And the bid was accepted.

WAGE INCREASES BY FORCE

(Contributed)

This is the situation that faces us today. The Boston Elevated strike is an illustration. There is no statute which prevents men from organizing themselves into Unions. There is no statute which compels the incorporation or licensing of Unions, because they are not under city, state or government control. In other words, they are at liberty to do pretty much as they please and put the public to any inconvenience or loss that they see fit. This is what some call Liberty, liberty to do as one pleases, without lawful control or decency. So long as they commit no crime the law touches them not.

But, and here is another phase of this question—in the case of the Elevated, these men have the right to strike, to leave their cars, and say they will not run them.

But they mean also that if their demands for higher wages are not decided to, no others shall run them. This means that if any attempt is made to do so, it will be thwarted by what? Violence. In other words, they will prevent and by Force other men from securing their places. This brings them to the point where they can be classed with Anarchists, disturbers of law and order and such a kind of force as this should be met by Force. It is a case of Force against Force—and our government, (if we have any worthy of the name), should be able to meet these forces and put them down, otherwise we are at the mercy of a gang of hoodlums and must be run by them at whatever cost. We believe that there is a considerable percentage of the Elevated employees who are not in favor of this strike and voted against it, but were outnumbered. These men have brains and intelligence but were compelled to go out with the others, and against their will. They were driven out by Force. They are decent, law-abiding citizens; many of them would gladly meet the company half way and help them out in the emergency, but they do not dare. Many have no use for Unions and would gladly get out when they go beyond reasonable limits.

The Elevated Union is now nothing more than a mob, who seek to gain their own selfish ends at the expense of the many.

These men who have taken this particular time to enforce their unreasonable demands should be dismissed from the service, and their places filled by others who have some sense of decency and their obligations to the public.

And there are plenty of such who would be glad to fill their places if sufficient protection was afforded them. The time is at hand for a decided stand to be taken in this matter. It is not liberty when a man is denied work when he wants it, because a Union says no. If our law makers cannot abolish Unions, they can at least put them under some sort of restraint and make it a criminal offense to intimidate a man who wants work and cannot get it because of them. The Elevated men are well paid and well used and the excessive demands which they have made, if granted, would put them in a class far beyond the most of them in ability and earning power. The ability to handle an electric car, at either end, does not require a college graduate, or one who has spent years and money in acquiring a knowledge of languages, sciences or the mechanical arts.

Most of them have had only a common school education. It does require however a clean personality, good judgment and courtesy, and these are the exception rather than the rule in the street car service of today. A man can work on a street car and still be a gentleman. It is an honorable employment for an honorable man, who can realize the needs of the public and who aims to serve them faithfully and well.

Railway companies are dependent upon their help for their success or failure and loyalty to employers should be and is the foundation upon which every railway man should build his own future. We cannot hope for any better street car service than we now have until every disloyal employee is weeded out and a company is at liberty to do so, unhampered by any Union rules. It is up to our law makers to regulate this matter.

—It is not generally known that the little park near the station is a public park and is for the use of the public. There are no seats provided and there is only one sign saying that it is Nye Park, and this sign is absolutely hidden in the shrubs. As there is a very large sign saying "Trespassing Forbidden," and calling upon the police to take notice one would suppose that the Park is private grounds, but this is not the fact, and it was given by Mrs. Nye for the use of all. It is a lovely spot, and very well cared for, and never looked better than it does today when the Scotch roses are in full bloom.

Toll Service At Reduced Cost

YOU CAN SAVE ABOUT 25 PER CENT on toll rates if you can use the station-to-station method; that is, asking for "Anyone" when making a toll call.

When your business cannot be transacted except with one particular person, and there is doubt that he will be at hand when called, the use of this method is not advised.

In such cases the person-to-person call is recommended. In most instances, however, the person wanted is at hand, or there is present some alternate with whom business may be transacted or a message left.

If, in your judgment, you can get satisfactory results by calling for "Anyone," it will pay you to do so.

YOU CAN SAVE MORE THAN 50 PER CENT on toll rates for calls to points more than 75 miles away, between 8:30 P.M. and midnight, if made by the station-to-station method; that is, if the call is made for "Anyone" instead of for a particular party.

Lesser reductions apply to points over 32 and less than 75 miles away.

YOU CAN SAVE 75 PER CENT on toll rates for station-to-station calls made between midnight and 4.30 A.M., to points more than 75 miles away, if made by the station-to-station method.

Quicker service will be obtained if you call the telephone number desired. If you do not know the number, the toll operator will get it for you.

State Treasurer Burrill Announces Method of Procedure in Making Application by Veterans of Late War

The following information has been prepared by the State Treasurer, Charles L. Burrill, for those interested in the recent action of the Legislature in granting a $100 bonus to men who served in the late war.

For the information of certain residents of Massachusetts who served in the army and navy of the United States during the war with Germany and who may be entitled to the payment of a gratuity of one hundred dollars under chapter 283, General Acts of 1919, the following facts are set forth relative to the method of procedure and necessary blanks to be completed in order to obtain the benefits of said act.

Discharged Men

If the applicant is a discharged man, application blank Form No. 39 must be duly completed and forwarded to the treasury department, together with the discharge or relieved from active duty paper. If, however, the discharge or relieved from active duty paper has been examined by the treasury department for the payment of ten dollars per month under chapter 211, General Acts of 1917, it will not be necessary to forward same a second time.

Men in Active Service

If the applicant is in the service at the time of application, application blank Form No. 39 must be duly completed and forwarded to the treasury department, together with Certificate of Good Standing (Form No. 42), duly completed and signed by a commissioned officer above the rank of lieutenant in the military service and above the rank of ensign in the naval service.

Dependents or Heirs-at-Law of Deceased Men

If the applicant is a dependent or heir-at-law of a deceased person, application blank Form No. 41 and dependent blank Form No. 43 must be duly completed and forwarded to the treasury department, together with any papers or information that the dependent may have relating to date, place and cause of death of the deceased person. The question of determining the disposition of money due in the case of the decease of any person who would, if alive, be entitled to the benefits of section 2, chapter 283, General Acts of 1919, are matters of fact which must be determined in the particular cases as they arise.

Consequently, in addition to completing the blanks set forth above, the interested parties may be called upon to report in person for examination or to furnish such evidence and data as the treasurer and receiver-general may require for the purpose of establishing the dependents or heirs-at-law.

Pertinent Facts

Blanks will be furnished upon application.

Errors or omissions in blanks will cause delay in payments.

All communications should be addressed to the Treasurer and Receiver-General, No. 227 State House, Boston, Mass.

Payments will be made by check and will be mailed. No checks will be delivered at office.

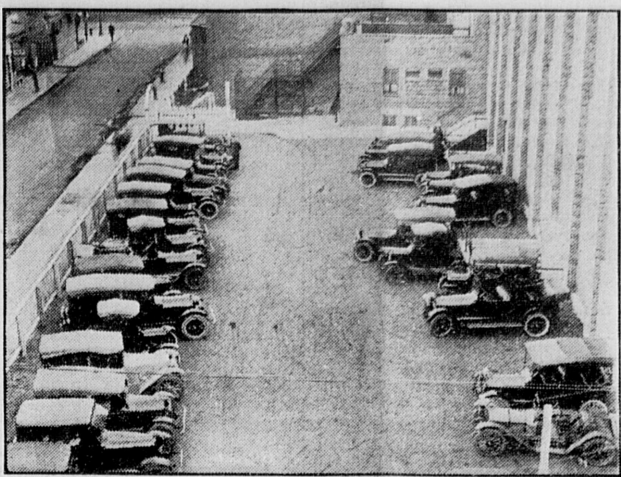

All discharge or relieved from active duty papers forwarded for examination will be returned by registered mail.

Conditions subsequent to the date of this circular may make it necessary for the treasury department to promulgate additional regulations or to change the regulations now in force.

The penalty for making a false statement is a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than three years, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts has again shown its appreciation in providing a suitable recognition for the patriotism of certain residents of Massachusetts who served in the army and navy of the United States during the German war. The expenditure of so large a sum of money has placed a great responsibility upon the treasury department and calls for an endless amount of detail in the records and accounting, and much care must be exercised that all applicants come within the provisions of the gratuity act, both as to residence and service. All applicants are assured, however, that every effort possible will be made to expedite payments so far as consistent with the safeguarding of the public funds.

Blanks are now ready for distribution. Call any evening at the Service Department of Newton Y. M. C. A. and get your blank filled out and sworn to or any afternoon at the Employment Bureau in the old Second Church at West Newton.

DROWNED IN CHARLES RIVER

Young Man Loses His Life and a Young Woman Has Narrow Escape at Auburndale

A young man was drowned and the young lady who accompanied him had a narrow escape last Monday evening in the Charles River at Auburndale.

The lad was Charles F. Diamond of Bristol, R. I., a student at Dartmouth College and who was visiting in Dorchester, while the name of the young lady was not given out by the police. The accident occurred at a part of the river where there happened to be but few canoes at the time. The wind which sprang up suddenly turned the canoe around, and young Diamond, in making a vigorous stroke of the paddle to regain control, overbalanced and precipitated both himself and his girl friend into the water.

The girl, who had gone down for the third time, was rescued by Joseph Desmond of 51 Wildwood avenue, West Newton, son of Sergt. Edward Desmond of the Newton police. Desmond was aided by H. F. Paige of 407 Massachusetts avenue.

Diamond was an expert swimmer, and made a gallant attempt to save the young lady's life, seizing her as soon as the upset occurred and holding her up above the surface until his strength gave out and his feet got tangled in the eel grass.

Just before he let go, to sink for the last time, Desmond came up around the bend and saw the situation. A number of swift strokes brought his canoe alongside the unfortunate pair, but both had sunk. Young Diamond lay tangled up in the grass on the river bottom, under about seven feet of water. The girl was submerged entirely save for her hands, which were near the surface.

Desmond grasped her by these and hauled her above the surface and attempted to get her into his canoe. The frail craft was very nearly upset in the attempt and he had to desist until another canoeist, Paige, came to his aid. By this time there was no chance left for the young man, who had been under the water nearly five minutes.

Sergt. W. H. Chaisson of the Metropolitan Park Police, accompanied by patrolman William Kiniry, were summoned, and immediately set to work over the girl. She was resuscitated and taken to the Park Police Station, where she was treated until she had recovered, then sent to her home.

Meanwhile the police were dragging the river for the body of her companion and at 6.30 it was recovered and brought to the station.

LITTLE INTEREST MANIFESTED

At Hearing at State House on Proposed Increase of Street Railway Fares to 10 Cents by M. & B. St. Rwy. Co.

But little public interest was manifested in the hearing last Tuesday before the Public Service Commission at the State House on the proposal of the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Co. to increase its fares to ten cents on most of its lines. Outside of the counsel for the different cities and towns there were less than twenty people in attendance.

Mr. Pitt F. Drew, president of the Company opened the case by informing the commission that the deficit of the Company for the year 1918 was $12,213 in operating expense, while the first five months of 1919, the deficit was over $21,000. The month of June 1919 showed a loss of over $10,000 from the figures for June 1918. The Company had not paid its current bills for the past three months and owed the Edison Co. for current alone about $25,000.

The contract with the labor union expired on July 1st and there had been several conferences since that time, with a practical agreement on operating items, and an agreement to arbitrate wages and hours. This matter was still pending. The Company is paying less than the Elevated or Bay State but higher than most other companies in the state. Its present rate was 42 cents an hour.

The Company had given the matter of additional revenue the most careful thought and as it must have an increase at once, it believed it better to take the present methods and merely increase the rate. The lines affected are those which do not show good financial results at the present time. The old rate is retained only on the lines operating from the Waltham car barns and the Newton Lower Falls line. The Company also wishes to charge a three-cent transfer from all 7 cents lines to a ten cent line, or from a seven cent line to another seven cent line and will give free transfers from any of the ten cent lines.

Mr. Drew stated that the Company was operating two one man cars, but did not consider them a success and proposed to sell the cars they now owned. The one man cars are no advantage, as they cannot keep to schedule, the operation being slow at railroad crossings, at fare terminals, and the cars requiring a great deal of power.

Mr. Drew was most insistent that the Commission should allow the ten cent rate at once and said he would welcome any suggestions looking to a better method of obtaining revenue.

Chairman MacLeod said the Commission would be unable to act at once and criticized the Company for coming in so late and demanding immediate action. He said the matter should have been fixed over two months ago if the Company wanted action by August 1st. Mr. Drew said that they had been waiting for a full year of the seven cent fare in order to give it a fair trial.

There were various questions from counsel and others bringing out the fact that the revenue had dropped off over $3,000 in 1919 over 1918, and that the Company had carried 922,175 less passengers in 1918 over 1917.

In speaking of the general street railway situation, Mr. MacLeod said, "There is a growing sentiment throughout the State, amounting almost to a consensus of opinion, that the maximum revenue will be gained by a street railway company under a five-cent unit of fare."

He explained that he did not mean the companies should go back to the old system of five-cent fares, but that the zones should be arranged and possibly shortened. In this way the companies would increase the revenue from short hauls.

The adjourned hearing yesterday morning at which the Company presented some elaborate figures showing the details of all its lines, also attracted but little attention outside of the legal fraternity.

The books apparently show not only that there has been an increasing deficit in the operating expenses of the company, but also that the company has been unable to pay its current bills for the last three months and owes about $15,000 of its excise taxes of last year. One town has trusted the bank account of the company for non-payment of the excise tax.

Pitt F. Drew, president of the company, said that in the first six months of the present year the Westboro-Hopkinton line carried 5 1-2 percent less passengers than during the first six months of 1918, and that the decrease on the entire road amounted to 19.59 percent.

The passenger earnings on that line gained 13 percent during the same period, but the road as a whole showed a loss of 10 percent.

At the afternoon session City Solicitor Elias B. Bishop of Newton, in opposing the installation of a 10c fare, held that if put into effect it would result in a decrease rather than an increase in the revenues of the company. Every advance in fare, he said, has shown that the company is losing money.

City Solicitor Flynn of Waltham urged that if the new scale is put into operation it should be with the understanding that no additional charges should be made for transfers in Waltham. The business done by the company in that city, he held, warranted such action.

Town Counsel Bunker of Wellesley, in opposition, claimed that under the present seven-cent rate the company is making a little money in his town and said that any advance of three cents is unjustified.

Town Counsel Ryder of Lexington, after asserting the territory in his district is one of the best paying in the company's lines, expressed the opinion that the net income of the road would be as large under the present fare as under the proposed one.

MYSTERY OF LIFE

Who Knows Where It Comes From or What It Is?

Marked Difference Between Mankind and the Wild Things, in Their View of Death—Lower Animals Little Impressed.

Some folks talk about "the mystery of life," and it is as good a way as any to speak of it. For, truth is, nobody seems to know anything about life. Yet everything pays more attention to living than to anything else. Practically every motive in the world, among the wild things, is to live.

Not even man, with all his knowledge, knows where life comes from, or what it is. George F. Burba writes in the Columbus Dispatch.

It is just the opposite of death, he will tell you; one either lives or dies. If he is living, the body is in a certain condition. The blood flows through the veins. The heart beats. The body is warm. One is conscious of that which goes on about him. The very opposite is true when a thing is dead, whether the thing is a man or a dog or a bird or a fish. But the why of it all—nobody understands that.

The wild things strive with all their might to escape death, but they pay little attention to the dead things about them. It doesn't seem to make any impression upon an animal to run upon another animal that is dead, out in the woods. They fear death, but they do not respect the dead, nor show any emotion in the presence of death. They do not know what it is—that is, they do not know that the dead creature they encounter in the woods is dead and done for. If it is something they want to devour, they devour it; if it is not, they pass on without paying much attention to it.

Death is more of a mystery to man. That is, it impresses him to a greater extent. He thinks more of it. He tries no harder to live than do the wild things, but there is something in connection with the presence of a dead creature that impresses a human being. This is especially true if one encounters death out in the fields or woods. Tramping through a forest, and coming suddenly upon a dead animal, one pauses in contemplation of the mystery before him. Yesterday a splendid stag, let us say, roaming the woods in triumph; strong and swift and beautiful; conscious of his strength and fleetness; living—breathing, seeing, feeling. Today—there he lies. His coat roughened by the winds or rain, his eyes sightless, his limbs without motion—unconscious he lies there like a log rotting in the elements. Can this be the stag of yesterday? Is the thing called life all he needs today to arouse him from the slumber—to smooth his splendid coat, to bring the gleam of light into the eye, to give speed to the limbs? Then, whence the thing called life? Or, from whence did it come in the beginning?

Thus do we meditate and marvel at the mystery of life and death when we are in the presence of death—especially if we encounter it in the great shadows of the forest—out where there is nothing to interrupt us, out where reigns that which gives life and which recalls it!

Few Reminders of Raids.

Studious lovers of London will not fail to notice how swiftly, true to her marvelous gift of eternal youth, she is obliterating every trace of the air raid period as if it had never been. Some of the scars made by enemy bombs still remain, as in the wholesale market in Covent Garden, but they might pass as unnoticed as the effects of recent fires which are always to be found in the great city. Notices of the air raid shelters are, however, already hard to find; an old one may be discovered on a lamp post in Tottenham Court road, or at Gresham college, which had not found leisure to tear down the shabby poster about its use as an air raid shelter; while in Southampton row the New Zealand record office has not yet demolished its sandbag revetment. Speaking generally, however, all signs of the reign of terror by night have "vanished like the baseless fabric of a dream, leaving not a wrack behind."—London Globe.

Paper Underclothing.

An excellent and durable quality of underclothing has been made of a fine-grained paper by Japanese manufacturers. After the paper has been cut out to a pattern the different parts are sewn together and hemmed, and the places where the buttonholes are to be formed are strengthened with calico or linen. The paper is very strong and at the same time very flexible. After a garment has been worn a few hours it will interfere with the perspiration of the body no more than do garments made of cotton fabric. The paper is not sized, nor is it impermeable. After becoming wet the paper is difficult to tear. When an endeavor is made to tear it by hand it presents almost as much resistance as the thin skin used for making gloves.

Use for War Materials.

The British ministry of reconstruction, according to the Daily Mail, is embarking upon a scheme of rural development by the construction of a large number of light railways to connect the country districts with the main railways. The cost will be shared by county authorities and the government. The lines will be leased to operating companies under adequate guarantees. Enormous quantities of material used by the British army in France will be utilized.

Demonstration Home Garden

The demonstration home garden located at the corner of Waban and Hovey streets is now being equipped with a bulletin board upon which there will be posted from week to week notices regarding the management of the garden itself together with notices in regard to summer garden management. A spray calendar will also be posted which should be of interest to many gardeners in this vicinity as it tells of the most practical sprays to use and method of applying same.

One notable feature in the garden is the fact that the crops have done so well on land that has not been cultivated up until last year and which could be called a light poor soil. This spring when the garden was planted only lime and commercial fertilizer was used to improve the seed bed as a dressing could not be obtained. The results already attained in the garden bear out the fact that thorough fertilization is quite essential to a good crop.

It will be noticed that beans make up a large portion of the crop. The beans are now growing very well indeed and it goes to show that this vegetable will grow quite luxuriantly on poor land. Already several bushels of beans have been harvested and sold.

The beet crop has been nursed along to some extent owing to the fact that a poor stand was obtained due to the dry weather when the crop was planted. However, the empty spaces were filled in with transplanted plants and the beet crop as a whole is doing well. Quite a few beets have already been sold.

The tomato crop has done exceptionally well. The tomato plants were planted two feet apart in the row and have been trained to a stake and pruned to two stems each. When the tomatoes were set out the roots and stems were set into the ground. Only a few leaves of the plant were allowed to stick out of the soil. Because of this method of planting a large root system has been developed and strong husky plants have been the result.

Last week the squash vine borer was found in several of the squash plants in the garden. The wilted appearance of the plant itself indicated that something was troubling the roots of the stem and upon investigation it was found that the squash vine borer had infested several of the plants. This pest is a small white worm with a black head which bores into the stem of the plant causing it to wilt and die. There are two methods of controlling the squash vine borer. One is to slit the stem of the plant, locate the borer and destroy it. The other method is to cover one or two joints of the main runner of the plant with soil so that a secondary root system will develop. Then if the plant is attacked by the borer, it still has a chance to obtain enough plant food from the soil to make a good growth.

'Y' GIRLS HIKE 100 KILOMETERS IN FOUR DAYS

On Recent Migration of the Penn Division From Souilly Area to Chaumont District.

Greek women in an age that is past accompanied the ten thousand in their campaign across Persia, according to Zenophon's report, and the A. E. F. now are hearing of the march of four "Y" girls attached to the 316th Infantry who hiked with the unit 104 kilometers in four days, at opportune times distributing cookies and chocolate to doughboys and officers.

This was on the recent southward migration of the Pennsylvania division from the Souilly area to the Chaumont district. It was a hike through snow, rain and mud, which tested the hardened combat troops laden with full equipment, so the boys knew it was a trying march for the girls, and wherever they appeared the young women were cheered. Their supply of "cats" and cigarettes were obtained from a heavily laden truck in the Y. M. C. A. service.

The Lorraine Cross, the 79th Division newspaper, has praised the service given by the girls, Miss Lenora B. Davidson of Oberlin, Ohio, Miss Agnes M. Olson of Galesburg, Ill., Miss Emily Hazard Chamberlain of 127 Mulberry Street, Springfield, Mass., and Miss Dorothy H. Johnston, Utica, N. Y. The newspaper says:

"On April 1st Miss Johnston and Miss Chamberlain led the singing of the second battalion as it marched into Trampot, and Miss Davidson and Miss Olson swung along ahead of the band as it played the Headquarters Company into Orquevaux. During the whole hike, by a word of encouragement, jest of challenge, and most of all by their presence, they kept in the ranks the few men who might otherwise have lost spirit and dropped out. The whole 316th is mighty proud of them."

PRINCE OF WALES VISITS EAGLE HUT.

London (By Mail)—The Prince of Wales visited the Y. M. C. A. Eagle Hut today and got an enthusiastic reception. American officers and men cheered when he entered. Francis Powell of New York, head of the association's work in Great Britain, introduced him.

"Thank you for the kind reception," the Prince said. "I know the work of the Y. M. C. A. in London, and I am glad of this opportunity to visit the Eagle Hut. It has been of tremendous help to men on leave. I do not feel altogether a stranger for I know a lot of Americans in the army over there, and I take this opportunity to wish you all a safe return to the United States."

The Prince remained half an hour to hear a concert and applauded every number.

N. E. 'Y' MEN CITED FOR SIGNAL BRAVERY

Distributed Supplies Within a Short Distance of Firing Line.

Paris (By Mail)—The signal bravery shown by John W. Kearns of 30 Carlton Avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., while working as a Y. M. C. A. secretary during some of the heaviest fighting in France last autumn, won for him the hearty commendation of army officers.

Kearns, who, in private life is an engineer, went to France in the Y. service early in October and was assigned to duty with the Seventh Engineers. By order of Colonel Paulen, in command of that regiment, Robert J. Coughlin, captain and adjutant, has issued General Orders No. 23, as follows:

"The regimental commander desires to record in orders the meritorious services of the following during the period of active operations in 1918:

"2. Mr. John W. Kearns, Y. M. C. A. secretary assigned to the Seventh Engineers. Joining the Seventh Engineers at Ferme de la Madeleine on October 20, 1918, Mr. Kearns served from the very start with absolute fearlessness wherever the companies of the regiment chanced to be. At Ferme de la Madeleine his pack was destroyed by shell fire. Near Poppey, on November 10, 1918, he distributed chocolate and cigarettes within a very short distance of absolute front skirmish line. At Brandeville, on November 10, 1918, with regimental headquarters he passed through the heavy shelling of that town. Since the armistice Mr. Kearns, by his tact, interest in the welfare of the regiment and his skilled handling of the Y. M. C. A. canteen has earned himself promotion to be a divisional Y. M. C. A. secretary. It is with regret that we of the Seventh Engineers see Mr. Kearns depart. He carries with him our best wishes for success both in his new position and in after life in the United States."

"3. This order will be read to all organizations at the first retreat formation after receipt."

STATISTICS REVEAL SCOPE OF 'Y' CANTEN SERVICE

Boston—A compilation has recently been made from 6,000 shipping orders showing distribution from "Y" base warehouses in France of the following items from June 1, 1918 to April 1, 1919. These totals do not include the enormous purchases from the Quartermaster during the months of January, February and March, 1919, nor do they include many Shipping Orders from which no returns have yet been received by the Accounting division.

With public sentiment almost unanimous that the recent strike on the Boston Elevated system was absolutely unnecessary, unwise and distinctly against the interests of the public, there have been few, if any, suggestions looking to a prevention of a similar occurrence in the future. This means that it is possible for the same interests which brought about the last strike, to bring about another similar interruption in service at any time in the future when the whim pleases them.

There should be something done to prevent strikes on the part of the employees in all public service functions, such as street railways, railroads, telephone, telegraph and similar services which touch all of the people. To allow this to go by default is a serious reflection upon our ability to govern ourselves, and, when we consider the serious loss in money, convenience and even lives when such a strike takes place, we would be guilty of criminal negligence if we failed to do something in the line of prevention.

It is evident, that with the present irresponsibility of the labor organizations, it is impossible to make any arrangements or agreements with them, which would prove more than a "scrap of paper," and other and more effective means must be found.

We have heard one suggestion which would be most effective, if practical, and that is that if every store keeper or tradesman would refuse to sell any of their products to the men on or such a strike, it would bring home to them in no uncertain fashion that they were looked upon as pariahs in the community, and make them think twice before voting to inaugurate a strike. A man who is a bad neighbor soon finds himself despised and neglected and any man who makes it inconvenient or dangerous for others to go about their daily tasks, is surely in the same class as a bad neighbor, and should be treated as such.

Another suggestion we hear, is that every man who goes out on a strike whereby the public is inconvenienced should lose his right to vote at state and city elections for at least five years, and that the leaders and officers of any labor organization which votes to inaugurate such a strike should spend one year in jail for every day the strike continues.

Probably these suggestions, which are not original, are wholly out of the question, but they indicate that we earnestly hope that something will come out of it which will forever prevent any future interruption of public service work.

We are sorry that Mayor Childs has not seen his way clear to ignore the arbitrary orders of the state police requiring cumbersome and unnecessary smoke screens and doors in some of our school buildings. It will be recalled that in passing the appropriation of $25,000 for this work, the aldermen, at the same time, requested the Mayor to appeal from any orders of the state police on the above lines. It will also be recalled that this whole controversy dates back several years, to the period immediately following the Peabody school house fire. At that time, the city appointed a high grade commission to look over our own school buildings and on their advice, over $50,000 was spent to make the buildings as near fire proof as possible. The present difficulty results from the fact that the state police, refuse to recognize the value of fire sprinklers, and insist that there shall be fire stops and smoke doors all over the buildings. Aside from the fact that with fire sprinkler service, there is small danger of any fire whatever,—if there should be a fire, these smoke screens and stops, by hampering the exits of the children, would undoubtedly prove far more of a hazard than a free corridor and stairways.

Possibly the Mayor has some good reason for not making a fight on the issue, but it has not yet been made public.

There is apparent little hope for any financial success for our street railway companies, even the higher and still higher rates authorized and put into effect, for the higher the fare the less travelling and less income. While the street railway experts scoff at the suggestion, it is becoming more and more evident that there must be a return to the old fare of five cents, and a shortening of the distance travelled. Under the present scheme of a high unit the short distance patron of the road is heavily penalized and is retaliating by walking, instead of riding to his destination and the short distance rider is the man who can increase street railway revenues. A return to the five cent rate after what has been experienced lately would not only add dollars to the treasury of the street railway companies, but would immeasurably increase their prestige, now seriously under a cloud.

Spasmodic Sermon.

The world may owe every man a living, but some fellows are convinced that the world has been holding out back pay on 'em for a long time.

saying the traffic would fall off materially if the new rate is imposed.

Mr. Drew remarked that Lexington is one of the lines that "drags" on the company the most.

—Mrs. R. E. Walker of Newton Centre protested that a fare of 10 cents from that section to the Lake-street end of the line is excessive. "The distance is less than two miles," said she.

Taking his figures from a chart, Mr. Drew replied: "It's a little more than two and eight-tenths miles."

Mr. Drew expressed the belief that a 10-cent fare would solve the revenue problems of the road.

"During the period in which we raised the rates from 5 to 7 cents," he said, "We noted a certain falling off in traffic. Now we have reached the stage where we are carrying only those patrons who might be termed the necessary riders. They must ride and should be willing to pay the cost."

"We would like to put into effect a 5-cent zone system, but cannot see how this can be done. If anyone can show us how we can successfully operate under such a fare, we will be only too glad to try it out."

Copper of the Ancients.

Metallurgists who have examined specimens of the so-called hardened copper of the ancients have found not pure copper, but usually an alloy, either natural—that is, the two metals existed in one ore so that in reduction an alloy was formed—or an artificial alloy made by melting the two ores together, the one copper, the other zinc.

First Wedding Vail.

The first wedding veil was called the "cambrum." It was a large yellow veil that completely covered the Greek and Roman brides during the marriage ceremony. The bridal wreath of orange blossoms, which is the conventional thing today, was introduced into Europe by the Crusaders, and is a Christian substitute for the gilt coronet worn by the Jewish brides.

HOME SERVICE WORK

Up to July 24 the Home Service has assisted 680 families of men going from Newton to serve in the United States service. In financial relief alone we have given $2,267.12; this has been paid for rent, fuel, groceries, medical service, and various other expenses necessary for the comfort of wives, mothers, and children.

With the signing of the armistice the work has not ceased. There are still back allotments to be secured, arrears in pay, and many family adjustments to be made. The men returning home find the Home Service of the Red Cross ever willing to assist them in securing employment, filing applications for State Bonus, assisting those who have been disabled, in getting compensation, reducing insurance, getting back travel pay, and getting the effects of men missing in action.

The office has applications for securing State Bonus, for the conversion of government insurance, and assistance is also given in securing citizenship papers.

The office at 829 Washington street, Newtonville, is open daily from 9 to 12.15 and from 1.15 to 5. Special appointments can be made for Wednesday evenings. Tel. Newton North 438.

NEWTON BRANCH SPECIAL AID

Interesting figures covering its first six months' operations, up to June 15 last, are included in a report that has just been issued for the New England division of the American Committee for Devastated France by Frederick S. Whitwell of the national committee, Mrs. Robert W. Love, chairman of the New England division, and Mrs. James G. Mumford, executive chairman. According to this report the total cash received has been $112,122.12, including 11,700 partial payments, and of this amount there has been expended for rent, salaries, publicity and maintenance of the workroom, $4,115.61. Of the $108,006.51 balance, $6,900 has been sent to France for designated objects, and the balance has been cabled to France undispatched. Besides this the workroom has furnished $563 new garments and 251 used garments.

The American committee continues to emphasize the imperative need in the devastated area, and letters from Miss Anne Morgan, who is in charge of the work of distribution in France, and Miss Catherine E. Russell, who went from this city (Boston) to work for the American committee in France, depict the urgent need of the committee in its work of rehabilitation and the almost hopeless conditions that confront them at every turn. A paragraph from a letter written by Miss Russell gives some idea of the situation.

"We have taken on five extra villages lying between our district and another, and this is prolonging the work of distributing clothing. We have taken shoes to all the villages, having carefully gathered information as to sizes when we made our first visits. Two of us drove into a village the other day with a car full of shoes, and in a moment people came running from all sides. We gave them out by families in bundles tied together, and in an instant all of Royan-cour was in stocking feet, sitting on stones by the roadside trying on new shoes—the first they have seen in four years. When we tried to start off there was only one man in the village strong enough to crank the refractory Bluebird for us."

In concluding its report, the committee declares that in northern France, there are many men, women, and children still living in black caves, without proper food, without medical care, without the ordinary necessities of life, and worse than all, without hope. "We cannot give them back their sons and daughters," the report concludes, "but we can make life supportable for these old people, and through the reconstruction and education of their children assure the future of France."

The Newton workroom is trying to do its part to help in this work, and as conditions in Serbia, Poland, and certain parts of Italy are as bad and in some cases even worse, there is great need of assistance and will be for some time to come.

SUMMER DRINKS.

There is possibly no more cooling, refreshing drink to a thirsty throat than one made of lemon juice. As lemons are so common they may be procured anywhere the year round. A nice lemonade always ready is the following: Add to a cupful of strained honey two cupfuls of water and a third of a cupful of lemon juice, boil together 12 minutes, cool and place in a bottle or jar and keep in the ice chest. A few tablespoonfuls of the sirup in a pitcher of water makes a most delicious drink, which may be garnished with a bit of fresh lemon or a sprig of mint.

For those who like ginger the old-fashioned ginger water is most satisfying. Add honey to sweeten, mix well with a tablespoonful of ginger and a pint of chilled water. This has been a harvest drink for the field workers for years. In the old days the sweetening was molasses and it gave the drink a piquant flavor.

Canton Punch.—For ginger lovers this is a great favorite: Chop half a pound of Canton ginger, add a cupful of honey and four cupfuls of cold water. Cover and let stand 30 minutes. Bring gradually to the boiling point and let boil 15 minutes. Add one-half cupful of orange juice, the same of lemon juice; cool, strain and add crushed ice.

Raspberry Shrub.—This delicious fruit sirup should be prepared during the fruit season. Take three pints of raspberries, put into an earthen jar with two cupfuls of elder vinegar; cover and let stand 24 hours, then strain through a double thickness of cheesecloth. Pour this strained liquor over three pints of fresh berries; let stand again 24 hours; strain again, add to each cupful of juice a cupful of sugar, heat slowly and boil 20 minutes. Bottle and seal.

Chocolate Milk Shake.—Melt four squares of unsweetened chocolate, add two cupfuls of honey, a pinch of salt and 1½ cupfuls of boiling water, boil five minutes. Cool and keep in a jar. A few tablespoonfuls of the sirup, one egg beaten and a cupful of milk; add ice and shake.

Puzzle for Marines.
Friends of the citizen "sea soldiers" are telling them that a marine not regularly a marine, although coaxed in the signals and likely to be called upon to "pinch hit" for a regular marine, must necessarily be a submarine. The "rookies" themselves say that Noah Webster overlooked this knotty problem, when he wrote his best seller, and they are calling on sports editors to decide the question.

Photograph in Photography.
A photographer has found a photograph a valuable aid in obtaining the desired facial expression in a subject. After studying the face of the person whose likeness he is to obtain he decides whether he wishes an animated, reserved, sad or pensive expression. He then places a record in the photograph likely to stimulate the expression desired. For animation he will play such a tune as "Dixie," while to produce a sad or thoughtful expression "My Old Kentucky Home" may be played.

IN THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY

A Missouri Democrat who recently delivered an address before the Rotary Club, of Dallas, Tex., told his hearers that if any of them wanted his youngest child to be able to say he had ever seen a Democratic President, he should take the baby to Washington and let him look at Mr. Wilson before his present term expires, because the chance would never come again.

THE STRIKE

Editor of the Graphic:
Dear Sir:
The case of the L. strike is stated with absolute accuracy in your contributed article of last week with the statements of which I fully agree. There is only one objection to the solution; that is that the politicians will not allow it. We can remember the long strike of several years ago which the Elevated Road fought to a finish at an expense of a million dollars. The day the road had every wheel turning and every place filled with the City and State authorities stepped in and "settled" the strike and gave the road the alternative of yielding to the unjust demands of the strikers or losing its charter. This was no idle threat; the road had to submit, its money was lost and the public had suffered weeks of inconvenience, all for naught. The same thing would happen again.

How many votes have the dishonorable striking employees?
Yours respectfully,
Arthur C. Walworth.

WORLDSTATE PEACE

From the dawn of the easternmost morning
To the eve of the westernmost sun
Every land on the earth
Feels the thrill of the birth
Of the peace which the Worldstate begun.

'Tis a peace which inspires with high vigor;
'Tis a scourge with no mercy for ease;
'Tis a calm to the soul
When the loud thunders roll
Of the storms on life's war-troubled seas.

'Tis a power which o'ermasters by striving;
'Tis a stern and relentless war's foe;
'Tis a peace which will fight
For the truth and the right
And return, by God's help, blow for blow.

'Tis the enemy dread of all fighters
Who would recklessly upset the world,
For it fights with a will
All such monsters to kill
With their legions forever downhurled.

'Tis a cause which enthuses the loyal;
'Tis a call which awakes every soul
To exert all its strength
Through the breadth and the length
Of the world for the good of the whole.

'Tis a foe more relentless to falsehoods;
'Tis a patron aggressive of worth;
It inspires every youth
With a passion for truth
And it fires the ambitions of earth.

For its standard's forever unselfish
And its aims are forever most high;
It appeals to the best Of the world, East and West,
Every lust of base self to deny.

It inflames the dead zeal of the slug-gard;
It defeats the dark plottings of crime;
'Tis a power in all lands
And a strength to all hands
Which are fighting Faith's good fight sublime.

'Tis a peace which cries ever for progress;
'Tis a force which makes over the world;
'Tis a soldier in arms
Who contends war's alarms
With his banner of right high unfurled.

'Tis the ruler of earth through the ages;
'Tis the alternate only of strife,
For the world must now choose
Which to take or refuse
In our crisis 'twixt death and world-life.—R. L. Bridgman.

BABY SHOW

Hundreds of entries for New England's big Baby Show at Norumbega Park, Tuesday, July 29th, have reached Manager J. T. Benson and from all indications this event will surpass anything of the kind ever known in this part of the country. Particular interest attaches to the show because it is the first time that war babies, born while their fathers were in battle abroad, have been featured.

The fact that there is no entrance fee for the babies and that all that is necessary is to send the baby's name to Manager Benson, also serves to make the show popular. Prizes are offered for the prettiest war baby, the prettiest baby under one year, the prettiest baby under two years, the fattest baby under one year and the fattest baby under two years.

Twins are also being featured and both the heaviest pair of twins under one year and the heaviest pair under two years will receive prizes. Prominent physicians will act as judges. There will be no discrimination as to race or color, beauty and weight alone counting. Entries have already been received, not only from all parts of Greater Boston, but from outlying sections as well, cities and towns as far away as Springfield being well represented. For those interested in babies July 29th at Norumbega Park will be a banner day.

DR. DOWSLEY BURIED

The funeral of Dr. John Francis Dowsley, who died suddenly from heart trouble while on his way to his office took place at his late residence, 205 Homer street, Newton Centre, Saturday morning. There was a large number of men prominent in surgery and dentistry present.

There were two services, the first at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. J. Killian on Homer street, at 9:30 in the morning, and a solemn requiem mass was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart. The celebrant was Rev. James F. Haney. Rev. Thomas A. Becker, S. J., assisted at the altar, and later read the prayers at the grave at Holyhood Cemetery, Chestnut Hill. The pallbearers were Dr. Thomas J. Barret, Dr. Harold De W. Cross, Dr. Edwin A. Johnson, Dr. William V. Marel, Dr. Albert L. Midgley and Dr. John J. Crimmins. The honorary pallbearers included Thomas A. Forsyth, Dr. Timothy Leary, George E. Howe and the trustees of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, of which the deceased was a trustee.

DEATH OF MR. WALKER

Mr. William H. Walker, whose death occurred Friday, July 18th, at the age of 88 years, had been a resident of Newton for more than fifty years.

When a young lad he entered the firm of Marsh, Talbot and Wilmarth, wholesale woollen dealers on Franklin street, Boston, with whom he remained until they retired from business. He married Mrs. Harriet Holloway Russell of Newton, Feb. 24th, 1867, and since her death in 1903 had made his home with his step-daughter, Mrs. Charles Jamieson Brown, at 113 Washington street, where he died. His father was Commodore William S. Walker of the U. S. Navy, whose last command was the U. S. S. Saratoga. A younger brother was Commander Edward A. Walker of U. S. Navy. Always of a gentle retiring disposition he lived a quiet, happy life, and sleeping peacefully passed into the great beyond the last of his family. Rev. Charles W. Wendte conducted the services held on Sunday and the interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

A CURIOUS CASE

There was a mysterious youth at the Newton Court Tuesday morning. Not only was Richard H. White mysterious, but he was of fertile imagination. Every time that he told his story, he varied the details until he had every one completely up in the air as to the exact nature of his case.

White was taken in charge by patrolman Whitehouse about 4:30 that morning, on Commonwealth avenue, near Walnut street. He said then that he lived in Boston. The patrolman was curious as to the reasons for the young man's wanderings at such an early hour, and questioned him. "He must have a very poor memory, Your Honor," affirmed Whitehouse to Judge Bacon. "Every time he told his story he changed it."

"He said that he had gone with chums to a party in Worcester. Then he said that he lived in Boston. Then he said that he wanted to get to West Roxbury." Here White, who was in the dock, interrupted. "It was Roxbury Crossing, yes, that's it, that's where I live, Roxbury Crossing."

White couldn't explain why he was in Newton. He couldn't officially remember how he had got there. He didn't know what had happened to him, nor where the chums were nor what had become of the automobile nor why the patrolman was bothering him.

"Do you want to tell me anything?" asked the judge. "Nope," responded the laconic man of mystery. "Have you got a job?" asked the court.

"Nope," replied the youth. "What do you do, what is your work?" demanded Judge Bacon.

"Shifter," declared White. "Do you expect to find ships to fit or any shipbuilding yards over at Roxbury Crossing?" inquired the judge.

"Nope," White wiped his off eye with a handkerchief and rested his chin on his hand. "I live there."

Judge Bacon continued the case until July 28 and informed the youth that he was to make himself scarce in Newton.

"What?" demanded the amazed young man. "O, go home, you are to go home, you are to get out of Newton, you are to leave town," explained Frank Sprague, the clerk of court.

And then Inspector Ned O'Halloran led the bewildered youth down stairs and took him out in front of the station house.

"Do you see that car track?" he inquired.

"Yep," said White. "Well, follow it," directed the inspector.

Which was a piece of advice which Mr. White proceeded to carry out.

NORUMBEGA PARK

"Tess of the Storm Country", that thrilling comedy-drama of mountain life, will be presented twice daily by the Liberty Players at Norumbega Park beginning Monday. This exciting play of humor and pathos has not been seen here for several years, its last showing being at the Majestic Theatre in Boston. It abounds in exciting situations and is crammed full of human interest. Norumbega is visited by hundreds daily, and almost every day is the scene of the outing of some big organization several big Boston stores having held their annual outings there this season. Its many attractions—the big zoo, the seances of the crystal gazer, the bowling alley, the new restaurant where dancing is a feature, and the canoes and launches on the river—make it an ideal spot for the pleasure-seekers of Greater Boston.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—The biggest and most elaborate offering yet attempted by Carl Hunt's fine company of musical comedy artists at the Plymouth Theatre will be staged next Monday night, when "Havana" will be presented at the Plymouth Theatre. Delay in producing this piece, originally booked for last Monday night, was caused by the extra efforts which manager Hunt is devoting to this tuncful and funny piece. He wished to give his people the opportunity for an extra week of rehearsals in order to give his patrons a finely finished production. Of "Havana" itself little need be said. The music is by Leslie Stuart, composer of "Florodora" and the piece was brought here by James T. Powers, who played the leading part, so tickling Broadway's funnybone that the piece had an uninterrupted run of months.

LIBERTY NOT FOOL-PROOF

Liberty is not fool-proof. For its beneficent working it demands self-restraint, a sane and clear recognition of the reality of things, of the practical and attainable, and a realization of the fact that there are laws of nature and of economics which are immutable and beyond our power to change. The principle on which we should deal with the liquor question is very simple. It is the principle of the Golden Rule. I think the formula should be that, first of all, laborer is entitled to a living wage. After that, capital is entitled to a living wage. What is left over belongs to both capital and labor, in such proportion as fairness and equity and reason shall determine in all cases.

CANNED VEGETABLES HELD UP

Washington, July 31.—The surprising policy of the War Department of withholding from public consumption millions of pounds of canned vegetables has called forth some bitter comment from members of Congress and others who have followed the investigation of the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department. "I am sure everyone can remember the Democratic slogan in the last Presidential campaign to the effect that that party would cut down the high cost of living," said Representative William A. Rodenberg, of Illinois, today, "and now we discover that the Democratic Administration has been hoarding millions of pounds of canned vegetables, thereby increasing rather than decreasing the cost of living. I believe this amounts to a genuine scandal, and the war expenditures committee is performing a real service by getting at the bottom of the matter."

POLICE NOTES

Two Waltham young women appeared before Judge Bacon at the Newton Court yesterday morning to press charges made against John Kinsella of 318 River street, West Newton. Kinsella, who is 18 years of age and a machinist's assistant by trade, is charged with having improperly accosted the girls, who Wednesday night visited the police station and swore out a warrant for his arrest. Judge Bacon continued the case in order that Kinsella may bring in witnesses who are to testify in his behalf. Patrolman Feeley told the judge that young Kinsella, who has a long record despite his youth, used such language and offered such resistance to arrest that he had to exert considerable force before the young man was finally locked up. The patrolman affirmed that the defendant was under the influence of Jamaica ginger.

UNIFORMS AND EQUIPMENT FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

A recent order of the War Department provides for the issuance of uniforms, clothing, personal effects, and equipment to any enlisted men who served in the army during the present war and who was honorably discharged or furloughed to the Reserve since April 6, 1917, and who has returned to the Government any of the articles to which he is now entitled or to whom for any reason they were never issued. Application blank for procuring the above equipment with a copy of the instructions may be procured by discharged men upon application to Congressman Luce, Room 238, House Office Building, Washington, D. C., who will be glad to render any necessary assistance in the handling of applications. In addition these men are entitled to the "Victory Button" which will be secured for them upon application.

DEATH OF MRS. FORKNALL

Mrs. Ida E. Forknall, the wife of Alderman Reuben Forknall, died last Friday at her home on California street, Nonantum, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Forknall was born in Franklin, N. H., sixty-two years ago and came to this city when but 12 years of age. She was one of the oldest members of the North Evangelical Church and was active in all kinds of charitable work. Besides her husband she is survived by four daughters and two sons, Mrs. Blanche M. Westgate, the Misses Olive, Ruth O. and O. Beatrice Forknall, Mr. Bert Forknall of Brookline and Mr. Edward E. Forknall of Auburndale. Funeral services were held from the North Church on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Robert L. Rae, the pastor, officiating and the interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

Words That Mean Much.

The sonorous opening of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, "Four score and seven years ago," is not equivalent to eighty-seven years ago! Prose hath her harmonies, no less than poetry. It is such subtleties that make up the full effect of literary expression. "Victuals" is not equivalent to "food," "deathlessness" is not the same as "immortality"—as Lowell showed when he suggested that we try converting Wordsworth's title, "Intimations of Immortality" into "Hints of Deathlessness."—North American Review.

Provide Playground.

The truly normal, mischief-loving youngster (and all healthy children are both) simply cannot live without play. If this is denied him he will droop like a flower transplanted into unhealthy soil. However, if he finds it difficult to keep on friendly terms with his small neighbors his mother must see to it that he has his own playground at home. It won't cost much to fit up such a fairyland, and it will prove an investment that will pay back undreamed of returns.—New York Evening Telegram.

The Apocrypha.

All the Old Testament apocrypha, fourteen in number, have been translated into English and are included as apocryphal books in some editions of the Bible. They were formerly printed under a distinctive heading between the Old and the New Testaments, and in that form can still be found in many old family Bibles. They are always included in the so-called Septuagint, a version of the Bible used by the Greek church.

Two Things Seemed Evident.

An Irishman was brought up for stealing ducks. The evidence against him was overwhelming, yet witnesses followed on each other's heels to testify to his white and blameless life and his stainless character. "Gentlemen of the Jury," the judge summed up, "I think you will agree with me that the prisoner stole the ducks, and that he is the most popular man in the county."

BURGLARS IN WEST NEWTON

By using a jimmy, burglars forced an entrance into the residence of Hugh J. Robertson at 281 Prince street, West Newton, early Tuesday morning, it became known yesterday, and they made off with considerable booty.

The robbers apparently made their first attempt on the front door of the mansion on Prince street for there are marks on the door frame similar to those that a jimmy would make. For some reason they transferred their attempts to the rear, where they forced a cellar window leading into the wine stores of Mr. Robertson. They did only slight damage to the window, and the evidence points both to the workers as being expert users of a jimmy and also, apparently familiar with the fact that the above-mentioned store of wines was in the dwelling.

Mr. Robertson said that the losses included a large amount of wearing apparel and Mrs. Robertson's boudoir accessories and in addition "a large amount of very choice wine and liquor." The visitors opened several cases and apparently sampled most of the beverages before making their selection, which Mr. Robertson declares was apparently the selection of experts in the matter of wines, and which, of course, is irreplaceable now. Mr. Robertson, whose office is at 92 State street, Boston, is the president, treasurer, and manager of the Eastern Oil and Rendering Company, and his family was at their summer home in Portsmouth, N. H., when the robbery occurred. He has lived in West Newton but a short time, having been formerly a resident of Brookline.

DEATH OF MR. GIFFORD

Mr. Walter M. Gifford, a comparative new resident of this city, died suddenly on Wednesday from heart trouble at his home on Walnut street, Newtonville.

Mr. Gifford was born in Falmouth, 41 years ago and at the age of 16 engaged in the coffee business and, for many years has been one of the best known men in that trade in the country.

He was a prominent Mason, a member of Joseph Warren Lodge and of De Molay Commandery, K. T. He was also a member of the Algonquin, Boston City, and Commonwealth Country Clubs.

He is survived by a widow, mother, brother, and sister.

The family moved here from Dorchester a few months ago. Funeral services were held this noon at his late residence, Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity Church, officiating, and a male quartet sang "Perfect Day," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "Abide with Me," and "Love's Old Sweet Song." The body was taken to Falmouth for burial.

Optimistic Thought.

A true soldier loves peace but is always ready for war.
